Mobil Station

Armed robbers remain at large

By FRANK J. AMATO
WILMINGTON - Wilmington police continue their search for two men who robbed Forrest Mobil on Lowell Street early Saturday morning, July 22nd.

According to police, the attendant, who was shaken by the ordeal two black males entered the property about 8:00 p.m. and lingered around the side of the building.

The attendant then went out to the pumps to fill a customer's vehicle and when he returned to the station, the two black men then entered the station and purchased a soda from a vending machine. They approached the attendant, and brandished a silver automatic handgun and demanded money from the cash register. Once in possession of the money from the register the men demanded they show the safe located in the back room. The thieves discovered that the safe was bolted to the floor and fled the scene, telling the attendant to stay inside for three minutes. The attendant then notified police via a 911 call.

Wilmington Police Officer Ronald Alpers arrived shortly on the crime scene, and interviewed the attendant and assisted in processing the scene for evidence. Alpers and Inspector Dave Sugrue are currently investigating the case.

Police thought they got a break in the case when they received information about a motor vehicle stop Saturday night in a north shore community. The occupants of the vehicle were in possession of a stolen handgun and matched the description of the two men who robbed the Wilmington gas station. However the attendant was unable to identify the suspects.

Police do have fingerprints taken from the scene that are being sent to the state police crime lab for analysis.

Wilmington Police Inspector James White used a computer-based program to generate com-

The Wilmington Police Department acted on news of Deveau's whereabouts from the Cherry Hill, New Jersey Police Department on Thursday, July 20. The man seen with his hands on his head in the above photograph was not arrested nor charged with any crime. He was, in fact, helpful to police in locating Mr. Deveau, Sr.

Search for estranged wife spawns three-state crime spree

By FRANK J. AMATO
WILMINGTON After a 17 day, three state crime spree, Joseph Deveau, Sr., 44, of Swarthmore, PA is finally behind bars. Apparently during his time on the run from the law, Deveau may have spent some time in Wilmington.

Deveau, a credit card executive, apparently used his expertise to track his estranged wife to Marblehead, Mass. There, Marblehead police alleged that on July 4th Deveau broke into the residence where his estranged wife, who has a restraining order for Deveau was staying.

According to the Marblehead police there was a brief confrontation and Deveau fled the scene.

On July 12th, Deveau allegedly broke into a residence at the Tavistock Condominiums in Cherry Hill, New Jersey thinking his wife was there staying with friends. When Deveau discovered that his wife wasn't there, he allegedly shot Paul Devine, 49, in the leg about 7:15 a.m. Deveau allegedly stole Devine's Toyota, and his wife's purse. Devine was released by from the hospital several days later.

Police speculate that Deveau spent some time in Wilmington where his son and sister reside, between the two incidents.

Deveau apparently went to back to Swarthmore, broke into their home and stole another vehicle. Deveau then traveled to Nether Township, PA where he apparently stole a vehicle from a funeral procession.

During the time that Deveau was on the run he was in contact with his son and made several promises to turn himself in. Deveau never made good on the promises.

Meanwhile Wilmington Police

Conservation Commission

Basins installed at Miceli Bridge

By CHARLOTTE COOPER
WILMINGTON Although the list was long on the Conservation Commission's agenda, the hearings moved smoothly along.

1 Burlington Ave.'s drainage and parking improvements will have to wait a little longer. Sweetheart Plastics still has several outstanding items and the public hearing was continued until their August meeting.

There is a discrepancy between the wetland delineation as indicated by the Commission and what the plans show and there are drainage concerns for the site. Erik Skadberg representing Sweetheart, appeared before the Commission to discuss the issues.

The plans show a vegetated swale as 5 feet in width in most areas, but John Keeley, Assistant Director of Planning and Conservation calculated it to be closer to eight.

"I don't think it is as narrow as 5 feet at any point," said Mr. Keeley.

According to a plan submitted by Coler and Colantonio, Inc., the engineers on the project, six new catch basins have been installed on the south side of the new bridge on Burlington Avenue. The flow from the basins will discharge into the existing swale located north of the site.

Hydrology calculations were also submitted, and include the high groundwater elevation as well as the revised volume of the treatment swale and parking areas. Mr. Skadberg indicated that the calculations include a high water elevation and show the treatment swale can handle the 2 and 10 year storms.

"I don't have the written comments from the town engineer," said Mr. Keeley. In addition, wetland delineation and questions surrounding the Middlesex Canal remain outstanding.

The Commission voted to continue the meeting to resolve the issues.

355 Middlesex Ave.'s redevelopment project was continued to August. Several outstanding

Middlesex East reports

Reporter tells of arresting experience

HANDS UP! "Woman Arrested" is a three-part series in the Middlesex East that begins today. Above, reporter Mia Carter learns first-hand what it is like to go through the arrest, the trial, and the incarceration of a woman charged with grand larceny. (Don Young photo)

By DOUG WOOD BOYLE
BURLINGTON - It is a bright sunny day and you have pulled your car over to the side of the road for a little rest when all of a sudden two police cruisers draw up behind you and you are ordered out of the car.

The police officers have their guns drawn because your car fits the description of a vehicle used in an armed bank robbery.

You may soon be able to prove your innocence but what will you feel in the meantime?

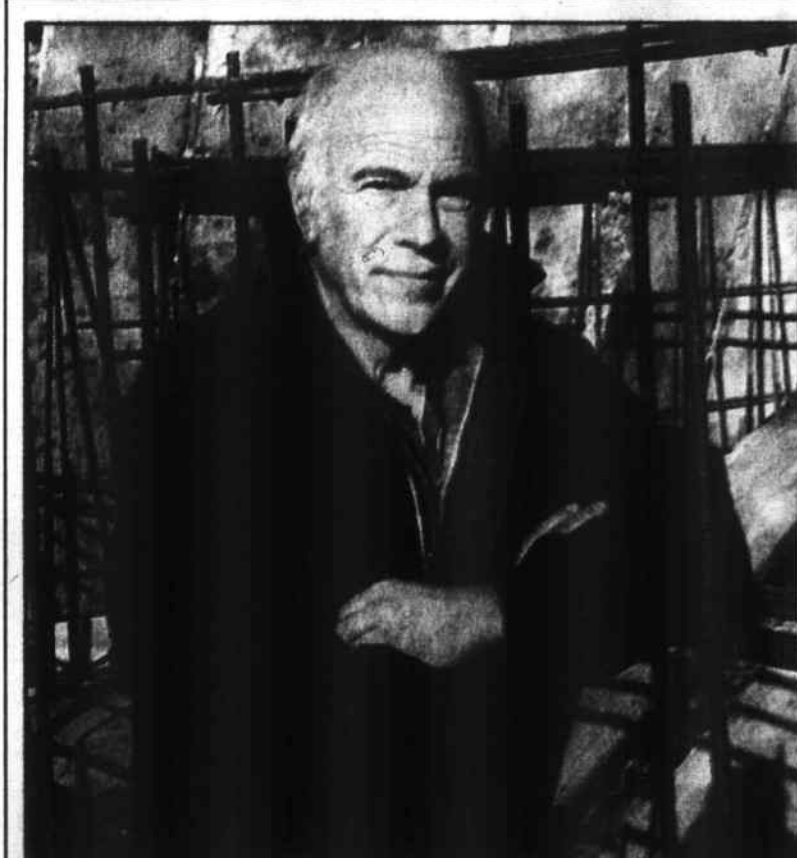

In today's Middlesex East Daily Times Chronicle reporter Mia Carter tells of her experience in just such a situation.

The difference, Carter was being charged with armed bank robbery (albeit under a controlled situation).

With the help of the Burlington Police Department, through Safety Officer Bernie Schipiletti, Carter was arrested in the rear of the Marshall Simonds Middle School on Peach Orchard Road. Schipiletti was assisted in the arrest by officers Kevin Cooney and Michael McDaid.

On being brought to the station she was searched under the direction of Matron Helen M. Bulman. Lieutenant Detective

What is Truth?

Love God, love your neighbor, respect the law, and try to be an honest and honorable human being. These statements not only bring peace to an individual but also to fellow men. Even those who don't believe in God will benefit from the message of loving and helping others. Enforcing these ideals has become very difficult. The mention of God must be weighed and evaluated before uttering this three letter word. The wrong how, when and where can bring on legal action.

The freedom to turn our flag takes a heavy toll on the loved ones of those who gave their lives for it. In the meantime vulgarity, condemnation, and sexual perversion are accepted and protected by the freedom of expression laws. This so-called freedom of expression takes away from some of our most beloved sacraments and beliefs. The holy Mary painted in splattered dung is presented as a work of art. The hurt and disgust of millions is pushed aside under the umbrella of freedom so that one person may express himself. There are always two sides to what is right or wrong, but when one side is so devastating to millions, can this be right?

The airways of entertainment are saturated with pornographic language and sexual behavior. MTV, the Jerry Springer show, and Howard Stern would make any parent concerned about their infectious influence. Oral sex, fornication, and promiscuity, are not only presented but also encouraged. The ease and laughter associated with these actions help make them acceptable. There are no legal ramifications to deter this degrading tendency. After all, today's interpretation of the first amendment gives its blessings. Actors and actresses are advantaged by their porno participation. It brings them fame, success, and wealth. Can children possibly override all these overwhelming influences?

In the past 50 years our culture has changed drastically, leaving the older generation in limbo. Many are confused and fearful because their beliefs and moral convictions have been attacked. Every thought and action must be weighed before being acted upon. How do I punish my child without outside condemnation? Do I bring out the truth about wasted and corruption of an established system? Do I teach my children to be honest and fight for truth that could end their careers? Years of experiencing and believing the truth shall make you free are indeed difficult to change. Even though today, the truth could destroy you. The children of today have no past to compare the difference, leaving them at the mercy of what is available.

Truth should be the ultimate conclusion of justice. The truth will make you free. The whole truth and nothing but the truth. Beautiful ideals but sadly not for all, the rich and famous are exempt. Sport heroes, political personnel, and famous stars seem to find a way to escape the just punishment of the law. Embezzlers, rapist and murderers are judged differently when enough money is involved. Can you imagine any average person getting the same time, effort, appeals and scrutinization of the evidence that O.J. received? The poor and unpopular don't have the best representation or the approval of the people to have a lie appear as the truth and vice versa.

The new philosophy of many politicians is to lie and deny, deny, and deny. It seems to be an effective tool in avoiding consequences. If they deny long and strong enough many people will forget. How many politicians have promised you the world until they are elected? How many times have you heard "Elect me, and I promise to serve one term and then move on for someone else." However, when the term is over they have a change of heart. Now they state, it would be an injustice to the people if they were not reelected.

After all, they now have the experience that would be helpful to their constituents. Their promise becomes almost issue. I cringe when I hear one candidate demeaning and discrediting another of the same party. Over and over saying how bad and wrong that person would be for the office. Once elected, the losing candidate not only endorses the winner, but also can not stop singing his praises. What an injustice to the truth.

The handshake on a promise is no longer valid or trustworthy. It seems that lies and deceptions are a large part of business and government. We all know that it exists, but we accept it as a part of life and survival. After all, everyone does it. This non-caring attitude is eating away the heart of a nation based on truth and justice for all. How do we explain what the truth is to our children? Can it be defined or does it depend on the interpretation of "is"? I know I'm confused, how about you?

Speaker Finneran had it right - at least the first time.

Dear Editor:
Back when Patriots owner Bob Kraft unveiled his plan to extort megabucks stadium construction assistance from the taxpayers, House Speaker Tom Finneran drew a line in the sand and vowed there would be no taxpayer subsidies for "Fat Ass Millionaires." The remark attracted some negative comment aimed at its tone and taste. Kraft's son Jonathan responded in a literal way and told us, shall we say, more than we ever wanted to know about his father's posterior proportions.

But Finneran had it right - at least the first time. "Fat Ass Millionaire" is a really figure of speech, and it says much more about attitude than anatomy. Finneran was ultimately backed off to allow public funding of a face saving "infrastructure" category. However, "Infrastructure" is turning out to be an elastic concept which covers a multitude of fiscal and other sins. The egalitarian use of public funds for Kraft involves building an express roadway so the high rollers in the corporate luxury boxes can beat it back to the highways without having to mingle with ordinary fans. Perhaps the fans will doff their hats like peasants on the Czar's carriage route as the cavalcade of Limos rolls by.

"Infrastructure is, in fact, becoming a sports corollary of the enduring Massachusetts axiom that 'Fat Ass Millionaires always win.' The well heeled and well connected can usually count on a friendly audience with Massachusetts politicians, but the sports setting seems to have an absolutely mesmerizing effect on them - freezing critical analysis long enough for the financial fast movers to get in to do their deal. Stadium deals tend to be like Ben Franklin's description of fish and weekend guests - increasingly smelly as time goes by - a factor which explains the haste and phony deadlines which often accompany these scams. This time the world as we know it will end unless there is legislative action by the end of the session on July 31.

The rush to judgment has produced four plans in about that many days. Scattered among the proposals and associated trial balloons are at least the following not so good government components which might well shrivel up under the glare of closer scrutiny:

1. Another boost to ticket prices which are among the nation's highest.
2. The taxpayers are on the hook for a hazardous waste cleanup.
3. The city plays the heavy in abusing the eminent domain procedure to hijack private property.
4. Tom Menino promotes a "some for you - some for me" scheme which siphons off state revenue for vague purposes which can be expected to show up in increased sign holder destiny on primary day.
5. The Governor teeters on the edge of breaking a no new taxes pledge.
6. Enough parking surcharges

Probation officers have their finger on the pulse of the community

Dear Editor:
The week of July 23-29 has been designated National Probation, Parole and Community Supervision Officers' Week. President Bill Clinton has publicly endorsed this celebration and Governor Paul Cellucci has issued a proclamation in recognition of Probation Officers' Week in Massachusetts.

As the Commissioner of Probation in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, I would like to join President Clinton and Governor Cellucci in applauding the 1,400 men and women probation officers who comprise the Massachusetts Probation Service for their commitment to the criminal justice system and the communities they serve. Probation is a court ordered sanction placed on a person convicted of a crime. The offender is allowed to remain in the community under the strict supervision of a probation officer.

Probation officers have their finger on the pulse of the community.

It is their primary duty to monitor offenders and to assist them in overcoming social problems such as drug addiction, alcoholism, mental health issues, and violence. More than 80 percent of probationers have substance abuse related problems. Probation officers work hard in hand with community groups and social service agencies to provide offenders with the support they need. Probation officers also maintain important partnerships with law enforcement agencies which benefit from the expertise and rely on information on criminal activity provided by probation officers. Probation officers also work closely with local police departments on warrant apprehension teams to get probation violators off the street.

Because they are out on the streets checking on probationers day and night, they are on the front lines in the battle against crime. Probation officers in the Family and Probate Courts also work to keep families together and to ensure children, live in safe homes.

The Massachusetts Probation Service boasts of a number of programs that help offenders turn their lives around them in becoming citizens who contribute positively to the community. The Probation Service also works in collaboration with the Office of Community Corrections (OCC) under the leadership of OCC Executive Director Steven Price. The 14 centers, located throughout the state, provide intensive substance abuse treatment, educational opportunities for offenders, restorative justice through community service projects while providing public safety and utilizing electronic monitoring. Programs such as the Fatherhood and Mother Programs teach offenders how to be better parents to their children.

These programs and the approach to probation are part of an important legacy created by an industrious Boston shoemaker named John Augustus who took in non-violent offenders and helped them turn their lives around. Massachusetts is the birthplace of probation which was established by Augustus in 1841. Probation officially became part of the court system in 1878.

More than 150 years later, the Massachusetts Probation Service continued its reign as a national leader in addressing the issues of the victimized, while effectively working to reduce criminal activity. To the men and women of the Massachusetts Probation Service and the clerical staff who efficiently run the 109 probation offices throughout the state, I thank you for a job well done.

Sincerely,
John O'Brien,
Commissioner of Probation
The Massachusetts
Probation Service

Many Massachusetts communities could face critical water shortages

Dear Editor:
On behalf of water utilities throughout Massachusetts, I urge the public to conserve our vital but limited drinking water supplies and to obey any local voluntary or mandatory water restrictions this summer.

Given the lack of snowfall during the past three winters and long range forecasts from the National Weather Service for above normal temperatures this summer, many Massachusetts communities could face critical water shortages during the next few months.

As a result, voluntary or mandatory restrictions on outdoor water use may be necessary to make sure that sufficient water supplies are available to service homes and businesses, to maintain adequate water pressure, and to fight fires.

For more information on how consumers can conserve water this summer, we urge them to contact their local water department, the Massachusetts Department of Environmental Protection at 800-266-1122, the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency Drinking Water Hotline at 800-426-4791, or the New England Water Works Association at 508-893-7979.

Raymond J. Raposa
Executive Director,
New England
Water Works Association

laid on to make you want to buy stock in towing companies.

7. Red Sox demand that the city build them a parking garage and then kick back a good chunk of the revenue.

Not quite a "top Ten," but there are indications of something less than full disclosure from the players - and there will surely be more rocks to turn over. Some of the politicians are still chanting the "infrastructure" mantra, but that fig leaf isn't covering up much of this naked giveaway. The Red Sox deal is in striking contrast to what "infrastructure" is coming to mean for job creating companies expanding and locating in Massachusetts. They are usually stuck at the playing end of the infrastructure pipeline - ponying up millions in "infrastructure" and linkage contributions as a price for opening their doors and putting Massachusetts people to work. I guess you just have to be "in" to get in on the infrastructure.

Jay Gaffney

At the Wilmington Library Children invited to discover the Frontier of the Rainforest

WILMINGTON - In keeping with the statewide summer reading program theme, "Open Books, Open Frontiers," the Children's Department will help children discover the frontier of the "rainforests." On Tuesday, August 1 at 7 p.m. Kids Club (for ages eight and over) will learn how to create "molas," a Panamanian folk art involving stenciling and layering cut paper to form a striking picture.

On Tuesday, August 3, children ages five and up can participate in a special program with rainforest stories and crafts. On Friday, August 4, Michelle's Menageries will visit the library for a live animal demonstration of exotic rainforest animals. Call the library at 658-2967 to reserve your free tickets for one of the two shows at 10 a.m., or 11 a.m. beginning Thursday, July 27. Thanks to the Friends of the Library for funding this program.

Bookends

Bookends, the library's book discussion group, will meet Thursday, August 3 at 7 p.m. to discuss "Beach Music" by Pat Conroy.

Volunteers needed

The Friends of the Library receive thousands of donated books each year, most of which they are delighted to sell at their Annual Book Sale. However, there are many old and out of date books that are donated that cannot be sold, or even given away at the "Friendly Book Sale." We have finally found a non-profit organization (Hands Across the Water, Inc.) that will take these books and send them, at their own expense, to English-speaking countries in Africa. The president of the organizations says that receiving just one book can be the realization of a life long dream for these people. The Friends are looking for volunteers to deliver boxes of books to the organization's warehouse, which is located less than a mile off Route 495 in Lawrence. The warehouse is open from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. weekdays.

The Friends are also looking for someone to act as a liaison between the organization and the library to set up deliveries. None of these activities would be very time consuming, but would provide a very meaningful service to the library and the third world countries. Please contact Karen Campbell (988-9264) if you would like additional information or would be willing to help with this worthy endeavor.

Page opening

The library has an opening for the position of a library page in the Children's Department beginning August 21, 2000. Applications are due to Susan MacDonald, Children's Librarian by August 11. Applications are available at the circulation desk in the Children's Room. Primary duties of a library page are to shelve books and other library materials and keep them in order. They may check materials in and out and assist in preparation of materials for library programs. Applicants must be at least 14 years old. Accuracy, reliability, maturity and to work with children are required. Must be able to move a loaded book cart and to bend and reach to shelve books. Basic computer skills are necessary.

The schedule during the school year includes one or more afternoons per week; one of more Saturdays per month and one or more evening shifts (for pages who are 16 years old) at an average of six to eight hours per week. Pages must be available for an increased number of hours during school vacations and summer vacations. Flexibility for scheduling is required. The rate of pay is $6 to $6.75 per hour.

St. Elizabeth's Kid's Day to benefit Camp 40 Acres among others

WILMINGTON - Nestled between Wilmington and Andover of 40 plus sprawling acres is Wilmington's Camp Forty Acres. More of a "facility," according to Richard Berry the camp's director, you won't find counselors, cabins, or flushing toilets. You will find a place where youth groups of all kinds come to camp and learn how to live in natural surroundings. They also become acquainted with the area's ecological systems learning about such things as vernal pools, salamander eggs and watch frogs hatching. There is also rope ladders, and ropes between trees where, with supervision, youth are presented a "mini outward bound" scenario.

According to Barry, president of Wilmington Junior Camp Inc, over 1000 kids have camped there in the past three years. Among them, Wilmington's fifth graders who come as part of their "Outdoor Life Program" and Boy Scouts who need such a place to fulfill requirements for their badges. There's plenty of room so that often more than one group can use the facility at a time. There are, of course, a few safety rules to abide by, particularly where fires may be built. Other than that, each group is on their own. There is a small pond where canoeing skills may be practiced. In the winter it makes a great skating rink.

There is a nominal charge for use of the camp, typically $2 per person. This helps pay the cost of electricity and other upkeep. Future plans include flush toilets, further clearing, and the refurbishing of the camp's chapel, a perfect task for groups needing to do community service.

Again this year, St. Elizabeth's Chapel will donate a portion of its proceeds to Camp Forty Acres. So come on down to the Wilmington Common to Kids' Day August 19 between 10 a.m. and 1 p.m., have some fun, and know you will be helping a wonderful cause. Activities will include crafts, face painting, tattoos, t-shirts, grab bags cookie decorating, fishing pond, bubble table, moon walk and much more. You might also get to say "Hi" to special guest, Pooh! Tickets, $1 each or 7/$5.

The camp is open all year round to any youth group. Call Mr. Barry for more information at 694-1027. Be prepared to be greeted with enthusiasm as Mr. Barry is very passionate about these 40 acres.

In case of rain, event will be held at the First Baptist Church, directly across from the common.

Basins installed at Miceli Bridge

issues regarding catch basins, trees, wetland replication due to pavement removal and riverfront zone delineation need to be resolved.

375 Ballardvale Street's last telecommunication addition was also continued. The tower will only support four carriers and Nextel Communications of MidAtlantic is the last. The other three carriers have their equipment boxes located less than the Commission's 25 foot setback from the wetlands and Nextel needs to do the same. The site is complicated and does not afford the 25 foot setback for the equipment. The Commission asked to have a full site buildout before they render a decision on the project.

Seneca Lane received approval for most of their new development. Several of the lots are within the riverfront zone, but since the lots are "grandfathered," it made the delineation a tough call.

"It doesn't really fit the definition offered by the DEP," said Mr. Keeley. He indicated that in some of the lots, the brook floods into the bordering heavily vegetated swampland, but the vegetation doesn't support the riverfront definition according to the Department of Environmental Protection guidelines.

22 and 25 Seneca have some heavily vegetated swamp area and the riverfront zone could be considered part of it, which made it too tough to call. The lots with questionable riverfront property were designated as "no finding" regarding the boundary and eight Notice Of Intent public hearings for Seneca Lane were closed.

Analog Devices was finally closed. Issues regarding the 21E documentation and wetland replication were resolved to the satisfaction of the Commission. Analog was required to conduct a wildlife habitat evaluation for the Mystic Valley Amphipod. In letter from Camp Dresser and McKee, Inc., the conclusion of the evaluation is that the areas surveyed do not provide adequate habitat for the species.

Mr. Keeley said that the revised plans included his concerns regarding the Ipswich basin recharge. The Commission indicated that Analog complied with their issues and the hearing was closed.

22 Mill Road's hearing was finally closed. After over one year of short discussions, the applicant supplied the alternative analysis of the site that the Commission requested and the hearing was closed. The Commission will render their decision at the next meeting.

Landfill capping plans discussed

pose of investigating the potential of contamination. Test pits have been dug for visual evaluation of waste and wells will be installed for potential contamination of information.

Mr. Fogel indicated that they are now in the phased closure of the site, which consists of a series of steps. The "ISA" or initial site assessment reviews the landfill's history and determines the boundaries of the landfill. Another step involves groundwater monitoring, which will aid in the development of the appropriate cap. Data from groundwater monitoring will be collected for at least one year to finalize plans for alternative corrective actions. Then there will be some "fine tuning" with the DEP.

Grading and shaping of the landfill prior to capping was discussed. The grading will increase elevations at a maximum of about thirty feet in the middle with a 5% slope on the edges.

"Those are the minimum grades required by the DEP," Mr. Fogel said. He said that the purpose for the grade is to establish a stormwater runoff pattern. He also said that sedimentation basins will be installed. "The design of a landfill cap has to have features that address [excess water runoff] issues," Mr. Fogel said. He said that the drainage calculations will be presented to the DEP for approval.

"To investigate and cap a landfill is approximately $150,000 per acre," Mr. Fogel said. The site is approximately forty acres, which means it will cost about $6 million to close. "The state has developed a guideline that now makes it possible for a landfill to include acceptance of material for grading and shaping that actually generates revenue," he added.

Materials for landfill capping include the residual materials from recycled construction and demolition debris. Crushing, sorting and separation produces materials that now can be used for the grading and shaping of the landfill prior to capping. Previously, a community would have to pay for the debris to be deposited into a landfill. The guideline now allows those fees and the selected materials from the processed debris to be used more constructively.

"Because of DEP guidelines, an opportunity exists to generate revenue for this project," Mr. Fogel said. "[We can] accept fees from people who can deliver to us residual materials from demolition as well as soil from large excavation projects like the Central Artery Project and others like that."

Mr. Fogel said that the DEP would have to determine whether the materials were safe for landfills. Sand and materials from road sweepings may also be used for fill.

"We want to do this as soon as possible," Mr. Fogel said. He said that the project is heavily regulated and that DEP, the Army Corps of Engineers and the Executive Office of Environmental Affairs are all involved with the closure procedure. He said that the capping will need to be done within the next five years.

Mr. Fogel indicated that some of the wetlands in the site will require alteration either for roadway construction or capping. The state and federal governments have regulations regarding wetland alterations that need to be followed.

"For a project like this there are special rules," said Mr. Fogel. "Where there is a necessity to alter wetlands for a project like this to otherwise improve water quality, it's not necessarily mandatory to provide wetland replication." Some of the wetland vegetation areas grew on top of solid waste and those are the areas that need to be identified.

"It's a question of which is better: preserve the wetland and leave the waste exposed to infiltration of rainwater, or remove the wetland vegetation and cap the solid waste," Mr. Fogel said. He said that they will remain in constant contact with the Conservation Commission for input.

Now that the ACO has been signed, some work at the site will be commencing.

received word that Deveau was in with his son in Wilmington on June 20th. Police confirmed that the younger Deveau's vehicle was in the driveway of a Wilmington home. Police surrounded the home, called for the younger Deveau to come out of the house. Police then searched the residence for the father, but he wasn't there.

Police stressed that the younger Deveau was not arrested and cooperated with authorities in locating his father.

Police later that day received information that Deveau was on his way back to the Bay State. Massachusetts State Police were able to spot the stolen Volkswagen Jetta at a rest area in Charlton, MA on the Mass Turnpike, and was taken into custody without incident.

Deveau is currently being held on $350,000 bail at the Worcester house of correction.

Alfred Sciuto did the booking.

All of the people involved with the Burlington Police did a very professional and thorough job and the staff and publishers of the Middlesex East give their profound thanks.

In today's Middlesex East story Carter will give her account of the arrest and what it is like to be brought into the system.

Our thanks also go to the staff at Woburn District Court where Carter was brought for a hearing and remanded to the Billerica House of Correction without bail. We at the paper give our thanks to the Presiding Justice Marie Jackson Thompson and Assistant Chief

Probation Officer James J. Dwyer of the Middlesex Juvenile Probation Office who helped to set the scene for this story. The court proceedings will be written about in part two of this three part series and the names of the many people at the courthouse that were involved will be revealed at that time.

In part three, Carter will tell of her ride to the Billerica House of Correction and her treatment by the professionals of Sheriff James DiPaolo's office that runs the institution.

We also wish to thank Don Young for the excellent photography that only he could have taken with his years of experience covering police matters.

The staff and volunteers of Burlington Cable Access Television, including Jennifer Dodge, Trisha Hicks, and Craig Callahan who filmed all of the events as they happened, deserve a round of applause, as I'm sure they will receive when their segments air on the local cable stations in your community.

Elia's Store - A Wilmington tradition

Copyright 1989 by
Capt. Larz Neilson

Elia's Country Store in North Wilmington just happens to be the oldest business in Wilmington. There was a store on that site during the Civil War. It is quite possible that the store antedates that war.

The railroad which crosses Middlesex Avenue in North Wilmington was constructed in 1844-5. The first train was on July 4, 1845.

At that time there was no stop for the trains in North Wilmington. In 1851, passengers could first board the train for a trip to Boston. A railroad station was constructed in 1855. That station burned down in 1912, and another one was built, which burned in 1988.

Sometime about 1855-60, a tannery was started in the field south of the store, by a firm known as Perry & Cutler. Both of these men lived in Winchester. They located their firm in North Wilmington because the tanneries of the 19th Century needed a brook nearby, in which to wash their leather once it had been retted. That word, uncommon today, means to remove hair, which was done by soaking the cowhides in chicken manure.

The Civil War proved to be a boon to Perry & Cutler. The Union Army needed tanned leather for the shoes that the Boys in Blue were wearing as they marched off to battle. Perry & Cutler and many other firms supplied that leather.

With passenger trains and a growing tannery, there was an opportunity for a general store in the was rented, over the years, to various families. One of these was the Surrrette family, and the late Walter Surrrette was born in that upstairs apartment. He worked for the store for many years, first for Rodney Buck, then for the Elia's.

It could well be that Herbert Buck had a new building constructed. He was an intelligent individual. He and his brother George ran two stores, under the name of Buck Brothers.

Herbert Buck ran the store in North Wilmington. The business was mainly devoted to groceries, but there was a section in which hay and grain were sold.

George Buck ran the store in Wilmington, near the entrance to the Wilmington Depot. His store was mainly devoted to hay and grain. He may also have sold groceries, but there is no satisfactory proof of that. In the post-World War II years, his store was the domain of the late George Spanos and his restaurant. Spanos was dubbed the "Mayor of Wilmington," because every politician who came through town on a campaign tour stopped to have his picture taken, shaking hands with George.

Herbert Buck was a lively person. He was an active participant in many activities. He was, among other things, elected a selectman of Wilmington. Later he became a state representative. He died suddenly in 1912, at the age of 50, probably of a heart attack.

His son Rodney, then 18 years old, took over the store. Rodney's younger brother Walter worked with Electricity had just been introduced into Wilmington when this photo was taken. The careful observer will note the wire running from the pole to the nearest corner of the store. That's a power line. No telephones yet. Shortly after this photo was taken the telephone exchange was located in this, the closest corner of the store.

A Wilmington tradition continues

by LARZ F. NEILSON

Prior to 1956, if you said Elia's Store, you were talking about a little store at the corner of Lowell and West streets in Wilmington. John Elia, Sr. and his wife Olga ran the store. A native of Albania, John had started his business as a fruit vendor. The couple raised three children in the house that had the store on its first floor.

When Rodney Buck decided to sell his store and retire, the Elia brothers were ready to go into business. Mike had just returned from duty in the Army. Buck Bros. became Elia's Country Store in 1956.

The Elia brothers made some changes to the store, but the basic building is still much the same. They replaced the wooden windows with a brick and glass facade, and installed modern doors. Inside, they put down an asphalt tile floor and installed new shelving.

At the time, I was about ten years old. I have memories of the store, and it was Buck Bros.

Outside the store were two gas pumps, Mobil, at the left front corner of the building. The actual store occupied about half the building, with the side closest to the tracks being used as a storeroom. In back of the store to the left was a small garage, used primarily for storage of old newspapers. Next door to the left, on the opposite side of a small parking lot, was the North Wilmington Post Office. Annie Gallagher was the postmistress. After she retired, my father, Capt. Larz Neilson, became the postmaster. He was the last postmaster of North Wilmington.

Buck Bros. was an institution in North Wilmington. Rodney Buck ran the store, assisted by his brother Walter, who used to run a delivery route. My first memory was of Walter coming twice a day on Tuesday. In the morning, he would take the order, and in the afternoon, he would deliver it. Then he went modern and started taking the orders by phone. He would deliver the groceries in a Chevy van with roll-up canvas sides.

Long after Rodney sold the store, Walter continued working for the Elia brothers. Another long-time employee was Walter "Bicky" Surette. He had a gruff personality, the exact opposite of his namesake grandson who worked at the store in the 1980's.

Shortly before the Elia's bought the store, my father started the Town Crier, with his office in the North Wilmington railroad depot, across the street from the store. When he first took over the depot, it was a great place for a kid. There was lots of carpentry going on. But after a month or so, all my father was doing was writing, which to a ten-year-old was b-o-r-i-n-g. But there was the store across the street. After the Elia's bought the store, at one point they enlisted my services. They wanted to put up a fly trap in the garage, and the fly trap kit used a jar that matched the threads on a jar of Marshmallow Fluff. They had the jar, but needed some help in cleaning it out.

The Elia's held onto their father's store after he died. They moved the building down the street and built a gas station, leased to Mobil. Next door, John Elia built Ski Haus. John moved into the ski business, while Mike managed the grocery store. They also built a block of stores across the street.

Mike's son Mike, Jr. manages the store today with his father still active in the business.

NOT MUCH HAS CHANGED on the outward appearance in 100 years. The inside has seen the feed and grain move aside, a hardware store come and go and liquor be introduced. (Stu Neilson photo) neighborhood. That opportunity was filled by a man named Jonathan Carter.

Carter lived in the house which is the home of the Mullarky (now in the 2000 Bridges) family, at the corner of Mystic Avenue and Middlesex Avenue. That gentleman did not build the home. It had been, about 20 years previously, the home of the Rev. Thomas M. Durgin. He was the Clergyman for the Free Will Baptist Church, in the building on Middlesex Avenue which eventually became the Wilmington Town Hall (and then the Arts Center of 2000). He also taught school, wintertimes, in the schoolhouse which stood on Butters Row, right beside the old Middlesex Canal. Rev. Durgin enjoyed a very fine reputation among the scholastically minded people of Wilmington.

A map of Wilmington printed in the early 1870's showed that Jonathan Carter lived in the former home of the Rev. Mr. Durgin. It also shows a store at the Middlesex Avenue railroad crossing, owned by J. Carter. There was also a post office in that store.

Buck Brothers
According to the obituary of Herbert Nathan Buck in 1912, the store was purchased by the Buck Brothers, Herbert, Sidney and George "about 25 years ago." That would put the purchase date about 1887, but that does not fully agree with the Buck family tradition. There is an ancient tale in that family which says that Herbert Buck built the store. It might be that the two stories are only different parts of the same tale.

The building, in 1912, was a two-story structure, with the second story used as a family dwelling. It Rodney throughout the years, but it was Rodney who ran the store.

The store burned down in 1913 or 1914. A new store was built, this time a single story building. It is the same store that is on the site today.

Grocery delivery in the old days
No story of the Buck Brothers store would be complete without telling the part played by Louis Nichols. That gentleman lived in a home on Middlesex Avenue about a quarter mile from the store.

Louis had a job of selling groceries all over town. He probably inherited the job from Herbert Buck. There is a picture, still existing, of Herbert and a horse and wagon.

The town was divided into sections, and Louis visited each section in turn, so that he visited many homes on a regular schedule. This was in the days before automobiles were common, and many families did not have a horse and wagon. Louis would spend four or five hours each morning, calling on housewives for orders. Then in the afternoon, he would deliver the groceries.

A nice, even-tempered man, Louis Nichols was an asset to the Buck Brothers, selling groceries all over town. His route was later taken over by Walter Buck, who delivered groceries out of a truck. Walter was the last Buck to retire from the store. He worked for John and Mike Elia into the 1970's.

The Elia's
The Elia brothers, John and Mike, purchased the store in 1956. They had grown up in the grocery business, in their father's store at the corner of West and Lowell streets. It is Mike Elia who runs the store in this year 1988, a store that is at least 125 years old.

The Wilmington tradition carries into the 21st Century

By SHAWN P. SULLIVAN

WILMINGTON - You've been going to Elia's Country Store for years. You may even be familiar with the market's rich local history that dates as back before the Civil War.

Now it is time to welcome you to the Elia's Country Store of the future.

In late August, the doors -- the new, automatic, handicap accessible doors, mind you -- of the new Elia's Country Store being constructed behind the current one on Middlesex Avenue will be open for business. It will be a new store that has been three years in the making.

Everything will be bigger and better, too. The new store is 150% larger than the old one. Natural light shines in more freely through three large plate glass windows and a triangular pane that peers high near the ceiling. The meat and wine sections will expand in the store's variety and convenience.

Michael Elia, who has owned the folksy country store since 1956, demonstrates perfectly why the new store will be a "convenience" store in the truest sense of the word.

"Watch this," says Elia as he stands near the entry of the new store.

Elia kicks off with one step forward and proceeds to walk across the brick-red-and-white-checked floor. When he reaches the back of the store, he turns a quick right and takes a few steps more. He stops before an empty cooler that will not be filled with groceries until a day or two before the store officially opens near the end of August.

"That's 25 steps," says Elia. "You only have to walk 25 steps from the entrance of the store to where the milk is going to be. At other supermarkets, you have to walk half a mile before you can get to the milk."

The truth is, if the milk at Elia's Country Store did call for the equivalent of a couple of laps around the old high school track, then it would be a trip that loyal locals would be more than happy to foot. Residents who have grown up in Wilmington have either shopped at the store for years or worked there or both.

Better yet, here's a fact that puts the "ma" and "pa" in Elia's Country Store's Mom-and-Pop appeal: The new store has been built by a few coming new store has generated a mix of excitement and curiosity -- in some cases, tempered with sentiment and nostalgia.

"People are very excited about the new store," says Melissa. "We do tend to have a lot of people peek in. We do have a woman who works for us who doesn't want to see in-rotisserie in the current store.

"Our line of meat has always been our biggest draw," says Melissa. "In fact, we even have a customer who comes to us from Malden to buy his meat. In this new store we will still have our core selection of meat, but we'll have an expansion of what we offer, as well. We'll also have a wider range of meat that we marinate."

Melissa Elia feels that her family's store is in a rich American tradition of Mom-and-Pop stores across the country, many of which have succumbed to the pressures of competition with such big guns as Wal-Mart.

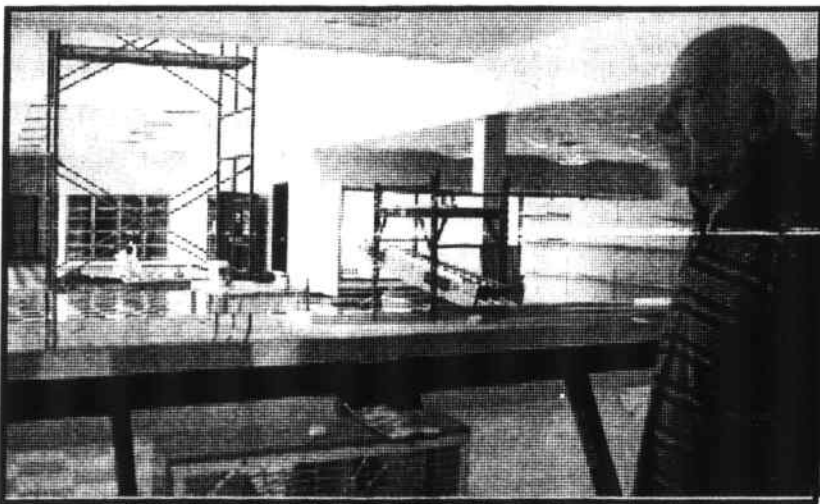

"There aren't many stores like ours around anymore," says Melissa. "Just last week I saw a story on TV in which a store like ours in Boston had to close down after years and years of being there because it has become harder to stay open with all of the competition these days."

Rest assured, though, that Elia's is not to be counted among those beloved institutions that have folded and sent moms and pops into early retirement.

"The way that we treat our customers will continue to make the difference," says Melissa. "It's the little things that count. My father still makes his own potato salad, and people really enjoy it. I can remember when I was little I used to sit in our pantry and peel potatoes for my father. I'm very proud of our store."

It is true that time does bring about change, and the Elia's new country store ensures the continuance of the family and business history. Here, however, is one thing about Elia's Country Store that won't change: The existence of the old store. In fact, the Elia's hope to renovate the building and possibly rent it out to local businesses.

"Just no convenience stores," kids Melissa.

A PEEK INTO THE FUTURE Mike Elia, Sr. looks over the new meat counter into the soon to be filled New Elia's Country Store

Wilmington residents who once worked at the old one.

For example, the new store's prime builder, Ed Gillis, of Landmark Estates, used to work in the old store's deli department when he was younger. Jerry Steves, who has installed the new store's sprinkler system, spent the days of his twenties keeping fruits and vegetables fresh in the produce department. The mother of Bob Canning, who has provided the roofing for the new store, used to work at the old one as a cashier.

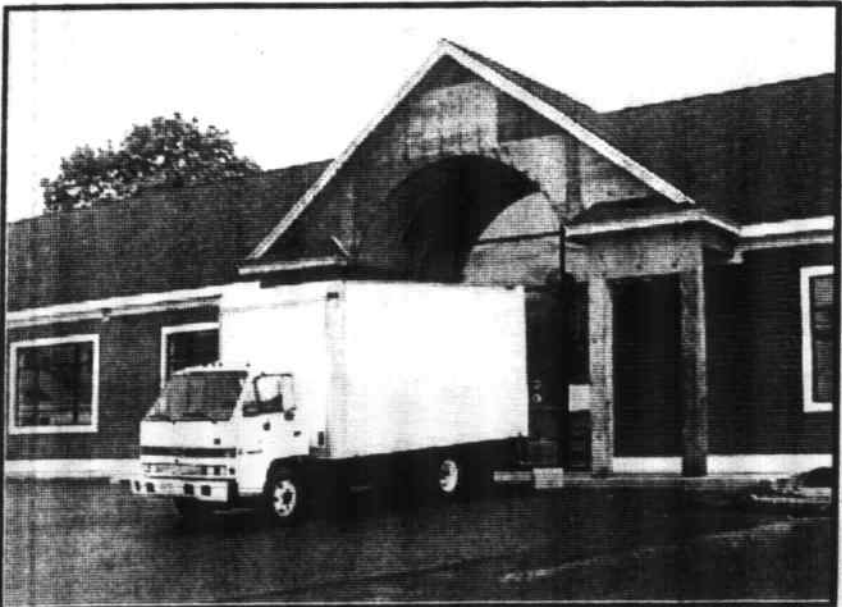

"Everybody worked for our store," says Melissa Elia, who helps manage the store when her brother, Michael, has the day off. "Lots of people come up to me and say that my father gave them good advice when they were working for him as kids."

Melissa Elia says that the upside this new store until it is done. She hasn't even looked through the windows yet. I don't know how she does it."

Continues Melissa, "Our current store is in such an old building, and there has been some people who are worried that the feel of the place will be lost with this new store. We've always been a very family-oriented place, though, and that's certainly not going to change."

Of course, there will be some changes that will be entirely welcome. A walk-in cooler has been built into the far left corner of the new store, allowing for colder beer and more space for a wider variety of wines, from lower-end selections to European ones. The meat counter will feature pre-packaged grades of meat in a larger cooler, as well as a small hot food case to replace the

Senior Topics

WILMINGTON Are you struggling to pay your bills? If so, then you may be one of millions of people who can save $546 or more a year in Medicare expenses.

There are programs that put $546 back in your pocket each year and may also help pay Medicare deductibles and coinsurance. In fact, each year possibly more than half of the people who can get this benefit never even apply.

If you answer "yes" to all three of the following questions, you may qualify for the program that helps pay medical expenses.

* Do you have Medicare Part A, also known as hospital insurance? (If you are not sure whether you have it, look on your Medicare insurance card, or call Social Security toll free at 1-800-772-1213. If you are eligible for Medicare part A, but do not have it because you cannot afford it, you should continue with the next question because there is a program that may put the Medicare Part A premium for you.)

* Are you an individual with a monthly income less than $960 or a couple with a monthly income of less than $1,286 (if your monthly income is higher than this, but less than $1,238 for an individual or $1,661 for a couple, you should continue. You still may be eligible for limited help.)

* Are you an individual with savings of $4,000 or less or a couple with savings of $6,000 or less?

When you are figuring out your savings, include things like money in a checking or savings account and stocks or bonds. Do not include home, car, furniture, burial, plot up to $1,500 in burial expenses or up to $1,500 worth of life insurance.

If you think you might be eligible for this benefit, you should contact the Department of Medical Assistance. Their phone number is in the blue government section of your local phone book. Or call 1-800-MEDICARE (1-800-663-4227). Someone there can help you find the right place to go. When you call, ask about the Medicare Savings for Qualified Beneficiaries.

To lighten up the subject, Elder Affairs is looking to honor the oldest living people in Massachusetts whose lives have been enhanced by a state program or service. If you or someone you know is a centenarian (or close to it) and has benefited from the Council on Aging, home care, SHINE, the long-term care ombudsmen, meals program, or other state funded offerings, please call Peter Del Sette, Jr. at Elder Affairs: 1-617-222-7450. Plans are under way to give special recognition for the Commonwealth's inspirational, longest-living elders.

Senior Center reminders: August 9, annual cookout at noon; cost $3; chicken, hot dogs, hamburgers, Bud Gleason, live entertainment.

A PRAYER TO APPLICATION TO THE HOLY SPIRIT

(My miracle prayer)

Holy Spirit, You who solve all problems, light all roads so that I can attain my goal. You who give me the divine gift to forgive and forget all evil against me and that in all instances of my life You are with me. I want in this short prayer to thank you for all things and confirm once again that I never want to be separated from you, even and in spite of all material illusions. I wish to be with You in eternal glory. Thank You for Your mercy toward me and mine. The person must say this prayer for 3 consecutive days. After 3 days the favor requested will be granted, even if it may appear difficult. This prayer must be published immediately without mentioning the favor.

AT ONE WITH GOD

We can derive great comfort from the thought that we are at one with God. This divine relationship frees us from the limitations imposed by our earthly existence, and enables us to explore the infinite. As Julian of Norwich has written, "Once in my imagination I was taken down to the bed of the sea, and saw there green hills and dales that seemed to be clothed with moss, seaweed and stones. And I understood that if a person firmly believes that God is always with man, then even if he is thrown into the depths of the sea, he will always be preserved in body and soul, and will enjoy greater solace and comfort than all this world can offer."

Whatever religious or social customs are practiced, some things tend to be universal; we treat our deceased with all the dignity and decorum they commanded and deserved in life. At FARMER & DEE FUNERAL HOME, 16 Lee Street, we are an integral part of this community because people in the midst of a crisis want the reassurance of dealing with people they know and who have integrity they can trust. For assistance with preneed or current need funeral arrangements, call 851-7411. All faiths are welcome.

Course begins Sept. 6th

Classes to offer a walk in cops' shoes

By SHAWN P. SULLIVAN
WILMINGTON - Here's an arresting concept.

Over the years, the Wilmington Police Department has hosted a police academy of for the residents and town officials and businesspeople and educational personnel of the community. The purpose of these recurring courses has been to give interested parties an inside glimpse at the daily and nightly operations of the local police force.

This fall, class is back in session. Between September 6 and November 8, the Wilmington Police Department will offer a Community Police Academy to folks like you and me who want a sharper understanding into the following areas of law enforcement: domestic violence cases; rape investigations; issues surrounding the operation of vehicles while under the influence of alcohol; traffic rules and regulations; narcotics and the D.A.R.E. drug prevention program; Internet crimes; crime scene processing; search warrants; SWAT team operations; and more.

Classes for this ten-week session will be held every Wednesday, between the hours of 6:30 p.m. and 9:30 p.m.

Interested? You need to meet only three criteria to attend. For starters, you must be a citizen or an employee of a business in the town of Wilmington. Second of all, you must be 18 years old or older. Lastly, you must not have a criminal record.

These classes will be taught by a diverse group of members from the Wilmington Police Department. Patrol Officers, sergeants, lieutenants, dispatchers and others will inform the students about their duties and responsibilities and experiences.

"This program is a good way to introduce people to the police department in their community," says Officer Scott Sencabaugh.

Officer Sencabaugh says that all too often people get their impressions of police officers and law enforcement life from the glorification that is often provided on TV and in the movies.

"We want to provide a realistic view of how a police department works," states Officer Sencabaugh of the Community Police Academy's purpose.

Here's an intriguing graduation gift for those who make their way through the entire program. Upon graduation, class members will be given the option to attend "ride-alongs" with police officers in their cruisers. Furthermore, graduates could possibly be given the first look at the new Public Safety Building, which is slated to be ready for business in November.

"These graduates will be the first ones to see inside the new public safety building," says Officer Sencabaugh.

Applications for the Community Police Academy can be picked up at the Wilmington Police Station at 1 Adelaide Street. Officer Sencabaugh, who is eager to answer any questions you may have, can be reached at either of these two phone numbers between the hours of 8 a.m. and 4 p.m. on Monday through Friday: 657-8082 or 657-7149.

Tewksbury seniors planning

Their own "Antiques Road Show"

TEWKSBURY - Those seniors traveling to the Demarais' are reminded that departure time from the Senior Center is 8:30 a.m.

Tewksbury SERVE distribution day will be Saturday July 29 at the Senior Center, 175 Chandler St., from 10 to 11:30 a.m. One may also register for the August package at this time. The last registration day for the August food package will be held Thursday, August 6, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Senior Center.

For more information on Tewksbury SERVE, one may call Mary Ann Wareham at 851-3344.

A crafts meeting will be held Wednesday, August 2 in the crafts room beginning at 9:30 a.m. All are welcome to attend.

The concert on the common for August 2 is "Peanut Funker & Jam" who will be playing dance music. Concerts on the common begin at 6:30 p.m.

The senior citizens will be holding another breakfast benefit Sunday, August 6. The event will be held from 7:30 to 11 a.m. with all proceeds benefiting the senior center building fund. Tickets may be obtained at the door at the following prices: adults, $4; children 12 and under, $2, and toddlers free.

The next monthly "Cootie Party" has been scheduled for Monday, August 7 at 1 p.m. This is a fun afternoon with plenty of laughs. Why not go on down to see what it's all about?

The date of the next activities meeting is Thursday, August 10. This meeting will be held in the crafts room at 2:30 p.m. All are welcome to attend.

This month's monthly dance will be held Friday, August 18. Tickets may now be obtained.

Dr. Smith will conduct a podiatry clinic at the Senior Center Tuesday, August 29. Those people who were on the waiting list for the last clinic will have priority in signing up. This clinic is limited to 25 Tewksbury senior citizens. A $10 co-payment is due upon sign up. This clinic is sponsored in party by the Council on Aging.

The Friends of the Elderly third annual Golf Connection Tournament will be held Monday, September 11 at the Andover Country Club. The cost is $125 per person and includes a continental breakfast, green fees, cart, lunch and prizes. All proceeds from the Golf Connection will benefit the Senior Center Building Fund. For more information one may call Mary Ann Wareham at 851-3344.

The seniors are also planning a giant yard sale & senior version of the "Antique Roadshow" for Saturday, Sept. 16. Table space is $10 per space and the event is held rain or shine. Now's the time to start gathering your wares as well as those valued pieces to be appraised by Arthur Bergeron. To reserve a space, one may contact Carol Hazel or Linda Brabant at the Senior Center.

There are several interest lists posted on the lobby bulletin board. Most are shows at the Lowell Auditorium. It would be good to check them out.

Once again, we remind you that it is extremely important to use caution in the hot and humid summer months. It is best to stay in an air-conditioned environment, wear loose clothing and drink plenty of fluids - water being the best. If you do not have an air conditioner, be sure to have air circulation from fans. You could visit places like a mall, the library or the Senior Center.

The following day trips will be posted at the Senior Center this Thursday, and corresponding tickets will also become available on the same day: Shopping with Norma (and a lot of walking and getting on/off bus), Monday, August 21 at a cost of $41 per person including motortcoach transportation, mystery shops and lunch; a visit to the Red Hook Ale Brewery and the Lobster Barn in York, Monday, August 28 at $31 per person; a Boston Duck Tour and visit to Quincy Market with lunch on your own on Friday, September 8 at $23 per person (school bus); the Amesbury Playhouse to see "Fiddler on the Roof" Sunday, September 24, at $26, and Foxwood Casino Thursday, September 28, $21 per person.

We'll be working on a couple of foliage trips. If you have any suggestions, drop your ideas in the suggestion box.

A pleasant week is wished to all.

Food Pantry to get boost from

Kid's Fun Day on the Common

WILMINGTON - One good event will be helping out one good cause on August 19th. From 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. children from the area are invited to have fun at St. Elizabeth's Kids' Fun Day and to help the Wilmington Community Fund's Food Pantry at the same time.

The Kid's Fun Day includes activities like crafts, face painting, tattoos, t-shirts, grab bags, cookie decorating, fishing pond, bubble table, moon walk and much more. There will be a special guest, Pooh! Tickets to the various parts of the Fun Day cost $1 each or 7 for $5.

A donation (limited to one per child) of a non-perishable food to the Food Pantry will be rewarded with a ticket.

The Community Fund serves about 30 families twice monthly, providing food and related items to help defray the high cost of living in this area. As the start of the school year approaches, the demand for individually wrapped crackers, granola bars, etc. and juice boxes increases, because children in the families which are assisted take them to school. Also during the cooler weather canned meats such as tuna and beef stew become more popular.

The concept of having children participate in helping the pantry is a win-win-win learning experience. The children who bring food can see the cumulative result (a lot of food in one place) of team effort. The pantry gets donations and the as the children grow they will be exposed to the concept of charity.

Older children have been participating for years in the pantry. Many of Wilmington's high school students perform community service there. According to the treasurer of the Community Fund, Theresa Manganelli these students are "wonderful" and "love it".

In case of rain, the event will be held at the First Baptist Church directly across from the common.

Tewksbury Library prepares for Outer Space

TEWKSBURY - It's hard to believe that July is almost over and Tewksbury children who registered for the Statewide Summer Reading Program, "Open Books, Open Frontiers" are beginning week five at the Tewksbury Public Library. Hold on to your hats as we prepare to blast off into outer space to discover the Sun, the Moon and the Stars during the weeks of July 23 and 30.

On Tuesday, July 25, we will be holding a family story hour at 7 p.m. This story hour is geared mainly to school age children, but preschool siblings may enjoy some of the stories as well. At 7 p.m. on Wednesday, July 26, the library is proud to welcome Henry Lappin, Juggler Extrordinaire. Henry's performance is made possible by a grant from the Tewksbury Cultural Council, a local agency supported by the Massachusetts Cultural Council. Children will be invited to use their imaginations Thursday, July 27 during the Outer Space Craft Projects. Please refer to your calendar for scheduled times and age groups. All craft programs required preregistration that can be done over the phone or in person. Preschoolers (ages three to five) who have not yet completed kindergarten) must be accompanied by an adult or teen who can assist them. Younger and older siblings may not attend these sessions. We will hold another story hour Friday, July 28 at 10 a.m.

We continue our outer space journey during the week of July 30 with the following activities: a 2 p.m. story hour on Tuesday, August 1; craft programs Wednesday, August 2; a family story hour Thursday, August 3; story hour and craft programs follow the same format as mentioned above. On Friday, August 4, we will host a special visit from the Springfield Science Museum's StarLab. This unique program will actually set up a planetarium in our meeting room and let us gaze at the stars. This visit is also funded by a grant from the Tewksbury Cultural Council, a local agency supported by the Massachusetts Cultural Council. StarLab will present five shows between 11 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. Reservations are necessary and can be made Friday, July 28.

Any questions or concerns in regard to the Children's Department or our programming policies may be addressed with Pat or Cynthia by calling 978-640-4490 ext. 204 or dropping in to see us in the Children's Department.

Larry says nice people do live here

Saturday while traveling through North Wilmington Larry White was crossing the Rt 62 bridge over Rt 93 when his car broke down.

Within 10 minutes a young man stopped to offer help and not only called AAA from a local store but brought a bottle of water for Larry's dog, Misty.

During the next hour plus 9 more people stopped to help. The tow truck from North Reading showed up and towed Larry's car to the West Side of Woburn, only charging $6.00!

Larry thinks that driver and the people of Wilmington are terrific. He gives a hearty "Thank You" all of those nice people, whoever they are!

Lt. Nicole Drevet graduates Air Force Academy

TEWKSBURY - Nicole L. Drevet, daughter of Claude L. and Mary A. Drevet of Whipple Road, Tewksbury and a 1996 graduate of Tewksbury Memorial High School, has graduated from the U.S. Air Force Academy at Colorado Springs. She has been commissioned as a second lieutenant.

The graduate served as an academy cadet senior officer who provided leadership, motivation and direction for the cadet wing and demonstrated effective officership in support of unit mission objectives.

The academy is a four year military college which develops and inspires new air and space leaders with a vision for the future. It provides cadets with a balanced program of military training, academics, athletics, character and ethics development, and allows cadets acquire a broad education in the basic and engineering sciences, social sciences, the humanities, a 30 choices of academic majors.

The new lieutenants go on to serve as pilots, navigators, engineers, maintenance officers, professionals in various technical fields, and some attend medical graduate school with special scholarships, while others go directly non-rated Air Force-wide assignments.

Wakefield blanks Wilmington Softball All-Stars, 10-0

The Wilmington Major League All-Star softball team, managed by Ed Collins with contributing coaches Jerry Holland and Bob Ham, hosted Wakefield in the District 13 finals at Palmer Park last Wednesday night.

Wakefield won the coin toss and again elected to bat first as the visitors. Wilmington needed to defeat Wakefield twice to become the District Champions.

Erin Magee, coming off her strong relief appearance against Woburn took the mound for Wilmington.

After walking the first two batters, Erin settled down and let her defense get into the game. Wakefield again set the tone for the style of play as they put on an aggressive running game, daring Wilmington to meet the challenge. With two runs in, Jennifer Comer roamed deep into center field to record her first of five putouts.

The final two outs of the inning were recorded as catcher Stephanie Steeves stood up to the challenge and threw out runners stealing at second and third with Brittany Collins and Margaret Sorrentino making the tags.

Wilmington then got their first look at Wakefield's Laura Von Holten who proceeded to strike out the side. Wilmington held Wakefield in the top of the second as second baseman Jessica Ham ranged far to her left to snag a line drive and double up the runner on first.

The inning ended as Stephanie gunned down her third runner stealing. With the score 2-0 in favor of Wakefield and Wakefield's Laura Von Holten displaying Pedro Martinez like speed and control, up to the plate stepped Wilmington's most experienced player, Stephanie Steeves. Stephanie ripped the second pitch up the game in left center, only to be thrown out at the plate as Wakefield overthrew the cutoff but to the perfectly positioned shortstop Lisa Donahue who threw a strike to catcher Amy Looney for the putout. This seemed to take some of the wind out of the inexperienced Wilmington team as Wakefield proceeded to score four runs in each of the top half of the third and fourth innings putting the game away.

Despite the final score, 10-0, Erin Magee pitched a strong game for Wilmington, displaying a poise and accuracy seldom seen in such a young player.

Having a strong defensive game for Wilmington, were center fielder Jennifer Comer with five outfield put outs of varying degrees of difficulty, catcher Stephanie Steeves who threw out five would be base stealers, Brittany Collins and Jessica Ham who made all their chances at shortstop and second base.

Also displaying excellent All-Star play for Wilmington with their overall attitude and team play were Kayla Fraser, Katherine Holland, Ashley Poirer, Brittany DiGiovanni, Charisse Marchesi, Brianna Nicolo, Catherine Sheerin and Kristine Barry.

So on a night when the playing field was set for TV cameras, a standing room only crowd of spectators lining the foul lines and a game full of All-Star plays, it is fitting to include this comment from the Wakefield coaches and administration, "each year we look forward to playing Wilmington because they play the game hard, are always well disciplined and display sportsmanship as it should be."

Wakefield has defeated Wilmington three of the last four years in the District 13 finals with this year's team being Wakefield's strongest.

Wilmington Little League would like to thank all the up front and behind the scenes people who contributed to making this a successful season and we look forward to being in the District 13 finals again next season.

Northeast Baseball ends season with two wins

Wilmington's Northeast League Baseball team, sponsored by Town Market Citgo, finished its season with two exciting late inning victories with Billy Sinopoli providing the game winning hits on back-to-back nights.

The Wilmington team has struggled in the Northeast League for the past few seasons with fewer and fewer varsity players committing to play baseball throughout the summer. This season continued the trend with only three of this spring's varsity players making a regular appearance for the team. Basketball, wrestling, football practices and camps and job demands depleted the ranks to such a degree that Sinopoli, Greg Buck, Dave Velardo and other young players from the Pony League had to be brought up to play just to avoid forfeits.

On Thursday evening the Wildcats took the field against Billerica with five players pulled up from the Pony League and came out on top by an 8-7 margin over eight innings. Incoming senior Joe Burns pitched all eight innings for the Wildcats allowing seven runs (five earned) with 11 hits, four walks and five strikeouts.

Wilmington's offense was paced by Scott Buck (four hits, one run, three RBIs), Greg Buck (three hits) and Burns and Bill Sinopoli with two hits each.

Trailing 7-2 in the bottom of the sixth, the Wildcats put together five hits, a walk and an error to score five and bring the score to seven all.

The score remained knotted until the bottom of the eighth when Burns led off with a walk. After the next two batters were retired, Scott Buck singled up the middle putting runners on first and second.

Up came Sinopoli who took called strike on the first pitch. The second pitch the last of the game as Billy lashed it over the left fielder's head, easily scoring Burns with the winning run.

The following evening the Wildcats hosted the powerful Reading squad with a similar outcome. Scott Buck took the mound this night backed by two rostered Northeast players and six Pony League replacements. Buck, ordinarily a catcher, frustrated the Rockets with an assortment of knuckleballs and curveballs. Reading scored five runs on 11 hits with three walks and four strikeouts, however the Rockets left 10 runners on base throughout the game.

Trailing 5-4 going into the bottom of the seventh, Greg Buck led off with a single to right center. Dave Velardo followed with a walk putting runners on first and second. Scott Buck followed lining the next pitch into center field for a base hit. Greg Buck tried to score the tying run but was cut down at home by a fine throw by the Rocket center fielder, Mike Ottariano. Velardo and Scott Buck advanced to second and third respectively on the play at the plate.

For the second night in a row, Sinopoli came to the plate with the winning runs on. With a 1-2 count he lashed a single to left center. Velardo scored easily from third and Ottariano's throw was high allowing Buck to score the game winner from second.

The victories improved Wilmington's season ending record to 6-9.

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

With a state championship already in hand, the Merrimack Valley Twisters Under 14 softball team are currently in Sterling, Virginia playing for the Pony National Tournament with over 80 other teams.

Thus far the Twisters, made up of six players from Tewksbury, one from Wilmington and the rest from surrounding towns, have played in the round robin play with one win and two losses. Starting on Wednesday morning they will play a team from Virginia to start the double elimination play. The team, if they keep winning, will play many games a day and hope to be alive when the Final 8 are determined on Saturday.

"We have a real good team," said assistant coach Steve Marsh, reached via hotel phone on Tuesday night. "We haven't seen any team we feel that can beat us [in the double elimination tournament]."

Tewksbury's Kevin Walsh is the head coach and he is assisted by other natives Steve Marsh, Jim Marsh (not related) and Bill Blakeney. Players Kristi Marsh (who had a brief cup of coffee with the Tewksbury High softball team as a freshman), Jen Elwell, Kim Aceto, Katie Petros, Lindsey Cullity, Jenna Bristol and Danielle DelPonte are the members from Tewksbury. Shannon Fahey is the lone player from Wilmington. Ashley Hauswirth is from Methuen, Allison Arrigg and Dana Medaglio are from Andover.

This tournament is Pony based. There are tournaments for ASA Softball (American Softball Association), and NSA (National Softball Association) as well. Right now the Twisters Under 16 team, coached by Tewksbury's Tom Boyle and features his daughter Kelly, who finished one of the most amazing freshman seasons a Tewksbury native has had in any sport, are currently playing in the NSA Tourney in Columbus, Ohio. The Under 14 Twisters qualified for the NSA tourney and another tournament in Florida, but decided Virginia was the best choice.

"For the funds we had, Virginia was the right choice. Ohio is five more hours away and this made a lot of sense. There's 82 teams here and between three and four hundred teams in all [in other age brackets]. This is a pretty big tournament," said Marsh.

On Monday, the Twisters opened with an 4-2 win over the South Jersey Bandits. Elwell pitched a superb game, while Cullity had a bases loaded double to drive in a couple of teammates. DelPonte, Marsh and Fahey also delivered big hits.

Later on Monday, the Twisters lost an amazing 7-6 extra inning game to the Long Island, New York

Bandits. The Twisters were winning 1-0 with two outs in the top of the seventh inning. The Bandits scored a run in the seventh to tie it at one.

The Twisters didn't score any in the home half and that meant the game went to the International's Tiebreaker's Rule (the last batter of the previous inning goes to second base to start the new inning with no outs). The Bandits scored three runs in the eighth only to see the Twisters score three more in the home half to tie it 4-4. In the ninth, the Bandits scored three more, and in the bottom half, the Twisters scored two more but left the bases loaded to finally go down, 7-6.

"I couldn't even explain the game, it was so amazing," said Marsh.

On Tuesday, the Twisters lost 2-0.

The team's defense has been pretty impressive thus far with DelPonte behind the plate, Medaglio at first, Fahey at second, and when Elwell pitches Aceto at third and Marsh at shortstop. Aceto and Arrigg also pitch, and when that happens Cullity plays short and Marsh moves to third. Hauswirth, Ducharme and Petros are the outfielders.

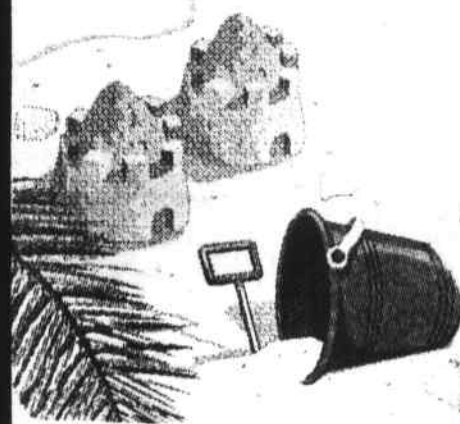

Jenna Bristol and Nikki Pillsbury didn't make the trip.

Six locals help Lowell Legion team into state tourney

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

During the months of April, May and June, all the thoughts from the Tewksbury High baseball players centered on a state championship. They had the pitching, they had the hitting and they had the fielding to possibly sneak past a few of the regarded teams.

Then senior right-handed pitcher Kevin Doherty was on the mound when Tewksbury lost its second round game to Westford. Doherty didn't have his best game but he did everything he could to try to keep his team in the game.

Now six weeks later, several of the members of that Tewksbury High team who were decimated when they lost to Westford with their state championship hopes thrown out the window at the same time, are now in serious contention of bringing home a state championship trophy once and for all.

Doherty pitched the seventh inning of Sunday's win, and then he and Scott Favreau, the other dominant pitcher on the high school team, both smacked homeruns on Monday to help the Lowell Post 87 Legion Baseball team to its two-game sweep over Gloucester in the semi-finals of the State Legion playoffs. Doherty, Favreau, Tom Sullivan, Mark Boudreau, Bob Moulaison and Jim Sullivan will now play the South B Sectional Champ on Saturday morning (10:05 am) at Greenfield High in the first round game of the double elimination tournament.

"This was a good win for us," said Doherty, of the 5-3 win on Monday held at Ross Field in Gloucester. "But we aren't showing a lot of emotion because we know we still have some work to do before we reach our goal of a state championship. Until we do that, we're keeping it low keyed."

With the score tied 1-1 on Monday, Favreau blasted a solo homerun to make it 2-1. In the third, Doherty smacked a 3-run homer to break the game wide open as Lowell cruised with the 5-3 win.

"It was a fastball inside," said Doherty. "I didn't get all of it. It hit off the handle. But the ball took off. It really carried well. When I saw that I just ran as hard as I could."

Tom Sullivan, Doherty, Boudreau and Favreau batted fourth through seventh in the game, while Moulaison batted ninth and played second base. Jim Sullivan, coming off a broken arm he suffered while playing collegiate ball at Bridgewater State, didn't play as he is still recovering from the injury. Tom Sullivan caught and once again played very well defensively, as he was 0-for-2 at the plate. Doherty was 1-for-4 with the 3-run homer and played a tremendous center field as usual. Boudreau was the DH and went 0-for-2, and Favreau was 2-for-3 playing a strong right field. Moulaison batted ninth and went 0-for-2.

During Sunday's game, all of the Tewksbury natives played very well as they all contributed to the 13-8 victory. Tom Sullivan was 1-for-3 with 2 RBI, including a double inside the first base bag. Doherty was 3-for-4, scored 3 runs, knocked in a run and stole a base. He also pitched the seventh inning, uncorking his blazing fastball to retire the side. Boudreau was 2-for-3, with a single, double, RBI and he scored 3 runs. Favreau was 1-for-2 with a RBI, while he got hit by a pitch twice. Moulaison was 0-for-3, but played well defensively through the first five innings before making two errors in the sixth.

All in all, Sullivan, Doherty, Boudreau and Favreau combined for seven hits, eight runs, 5 RBI and two stolen bases.

MVC falls to quick Middlesex League squad, 19-0

By BRIAN MURPHY
Daily Times Chronicle

WOBURN - The players on this year's Melrose High football team may never know the feeling of Super Bowl victory, but last night they got to taste the next best thing.

Middlesex League pride as restored in the seventh annual Carole Classic all-star football game played last Thursday night at Connolly Stadium in Woburn, in no small part thanks to a dozen Melrose players who treated the charity fund-raiser game as their own personal crusade.

Led by All-Scholastic Red Raider tailback George LeBlanc, who earned Middlesex Offensive MVP honors for his 15-carry, 88-yard, one-touchdown rushing performance, the locals pounded the Merrimack Valley Conference, 19-0. It was the MVC's first win in five years, cutting the series gap to 4-3 in favor of the MVC. Shouts of, "Middlesex is back!" could be heard from the gathered circle of players at the conclusion of the game.

"The kids were hungry, and the Melrose kids I'm sure were so disappointed at not going to the Bowl," said Wakefield head coach Mike Boyages, who coached the Middlesex offense. "For them, this had extra meaning."

Melrose matched Wakefield with identical 9-0-1 records during the regular season, but a 14-14 Thanksgiving Day tie between the two was settled with a controversial coin flip. Wakefield won the toss and went to the Bowl, beating Acton-Boxborough in one of the three Division 2 Super Bowls.

Thursday night, however, any hard feelings between the rivals were forgotten, as Wakefield and Melrose players formed a seamless offensive unit scored on the game's opening drive with ruthless efficiency. Eight Melrose and three Wakefield players marched 66 yards on 13 plays to paydirt, with LeBlanc going up and over the top for a one-yard touchdown run behind crushing blocks from a pair of 220-pound fullbacks - teammate Pat Kent and Wakefield's Bill Morrison.

Paving the way in the trenches were Dave Waden (6-0, 240), Anthony Riccio (5-11, 250), Craig Stewart (6-0, 250) and Vin Milano (6-0, 210) of Melrose, along with Wakefield's Wayne Ulwick (6-0, 210). Tight ends Mark Drauschke (6-3, 220) of Melrose and Wakefield's Dan Relihan (6-1, 225) helped in the blocking, as did Burlington's Jeremy Kemper, Woburn's Joe Prizio and Wakefield's Rich Heimbecker.

"They got along better than I ever expected," said Boyages.

In addition to crediting the on-field camaraderie between the players, Boyages also praised Shawn Maguire the Burlington staff for their work with the Middlesex defense. Notably, the last time the ML won the Carole Classic (1995), Burlington's and Wakefield's staffs coached the game.

"We kind of kidded afterwards that we'll have to keep the Burlington and Wakefield staffs together," Boyages laughed. "I know coach (Rocky) Nelson (of Woburn), the Carole Classic's Middlesex liaison) was thrilled - he's tired of losing."

Earning Middlesex Defensive MVP honors for his dominating play at nose guard was Wakefield's

Justin Chapman. Chapman had a pair of sacks and was in on seven tackles, including four for a loss or no gain, as he repeatedly beat the interior of the MVC line with his superior strength and quickness.

The 5-11, 200-pound Chapman was hobbled last season by a slow-to-heal broken ankle, which happened in June and required a pin and two screws to fix. Last night, he said, was the first time he felt 100 percent.

"I felt so much better than I did during the season," said Chapman, who plans on continuing his football career at UMass Lowell. "I couldn't cut, couldn't run full speed. Now I feel great."

MVC head coach Brian Aylward of Tewksbury thought the quick Middlesex defensive front, and Chapman in particular were key to his team's defeat.

"He (Chapman) was the difference in the game," said Aylward, whose team was limited to 52 yards on 29 carries. "We just couldn't block him. Also LeBlanc from Melrose, if he had a little bit of room he'd take it and make it hurt."

Aylward coached eight of his former Tewksbury High players for the last time, including quarterback Tom Sullivan who didn't have much time to throw the ball because of the quickness of the defensive line of the Middlesex League. Besides Sullivan, Tewksbury natives Erik Hamilton, Jay Stamp, Brian Sinkus, Abel Ghanooni, Jon Takach, Bryan Deshler and Larry Dingle.

The MVC had its chances in Thursday night's game, but was hurt by four turnovers and was unable to capitalize on two by the locals. On the Middlesex' second possession, the MVC recovered a fumble and had a long drive into the local's territory, but came away empty.

Beginning from its own 24, a mix of running from Central Catholic's Matt Kobelski (of Tewksbury) and Chelmsford's Chris Piscione (whose father Bill is an assistant coach under Aylward), coupled with the passing of Tom Sullivan and a pass interference call, took the MVC to the Middlesex 33.

But a trio of Woburnites combined to end the scoring threat. Defensive end Joe Tarranto sacked Sullivan for a nine yard loss, and when he dropped back to pass on the next play, linebacker Manny Ortiz tipped the ball into the hands of teammate Sean Murphy, who raced 54 yards to the MVC 11.

Two straight runs by LeBlanc set up a first and goal at the one, and this time Morrison got the call from a yard out, scoring with 6:30 remaining in the half.

Trailing 13-0, the MVC turned to the air. Chelmsford's Brian Maguire, in for Sullivan at QB, connected on six straight passes, including a 24 yarder to tailback Erik Hamilton, setting up a first and ten at the local's 29.

But after two incompletions, Maguire was sacked by Lexington tackle Mike Lavia and brought down for a loss by Chapman, ending the series and the half.

The third quarter began slowly with each team advancing no further than midfield on a pair of series each. When the MVC did begin to show life, however, another turnover halted the momentum.

Sullivan hooked up with Piscione on a swing pass out of the backfield and he ran 28 yards to the ML 35, and he would have scored if not for a shoestring tackle by Burlington defensive back Dave Abramo.

On third down at the locals' 40, however, Wakefield DB Jerry Sancinotto picked off Sullivan for the second time to end the threat.

Beginning at its own 19 Middlesex mounted a final touch down drive that ate up seven minutes and iced the game.

Key plays on the series include a 28-yard Matt Basteri to Jeff Coot pass, and a fake punt on fourth-and-nine in MVC territory. On the fake LeBlanc took the snap and ran around right end, sprung by nice blocks on the corner from Wakefield's Mike Spivey and downfield by Reading's George Maksoo.

Sixteen yards later, he had a first down at the MVC 24.

On third-and-seven on the same drive, Basteri rolled out and found Wakefield tight end Dan Relihan in the end zone for a 21-yard touchdown pass with 5:02 to play. Relihan's first of his senior year. A Basteri rush failed but it was now 19-0 for the locals.

The MVC attempted one final drive, but Melrose tackle Anthony Riccio recovered a fumble at the locals' 44 to end the game.

$20,000 raised in football clash

By BRIAN MURPHY
Daily Times Chronicle

In addition to restoring Middlesex League pride with their 19-0 win, local players also did their share and more off the field for the Carole Fund. A total of $11,000 in pre-game ticket sales was recorded between the two leagues, and including gate receipts, concessions and the 50-50 raffles, an estimated $20,000-plus was raised this year.

All the money goes to the Carole Fund and Camp Carole, a summer camp for cancer stricken children and teens in H.H. In the game's seven year history, some $130,000 has been donated to the cause.

"These kids really got the message at the breakfast and showed what the game is all about," said game liaison and head Woburn football coach Rocky Nelson.

The pre-game skills competition was split evenly between the two leagues. Tewksbury's Jon Takach won the long distance kick, Pat Kent of Melrose boomed a 51-yard punt to win that event. Methuen's Sean Furey (the state's top javelin thrower) threw a 60-yard bomb to win the long toss and Burlington's Frank Marchese won the 40-yard dash. Awards were presented to each player by Reading resident Carl McFadden on behalf of Business Long Distance.

Syracuse University's Jackie Chisholm and Woburn High's Julie Devany sang the national anthem beautifully before an estimated crowd of 3,000 fans.

Congratulations to Jimmy DeLong and his staff for their work in getting the game field in impeccable shape. The great field conditions helped contribute to no injuries in last night's game.

Town & Crier NATIONAL AMUSEMENTS

Great journey comes to an end for Junior Nationals

THE TEWKSBURY JUNIOR NATIONAL ALL-STAR BASEBALL TEAM (far left) celebrates its District 14 title last Wednesday night. The team was eliminated from further play on Saturday morning, 9-8, in a two day ten inning bi-district game to Stoneham. Pictured above, first baseman Kevin Igo looks to slap a tag down on a leading base runner during Friday night's game. (Above Photo by Maureen Lamoureux)

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

After getting out of countless jams, and scoring three runs in the bottom of the seventh with two outs in near darkness, it seemed as if the Tewksbury Junior National baseball all-star team were destined to win their bi-district game against Stoneham.

But during Saturday morning's conclusion extra inning game, Tewksbury gave up an unearned run in the top of the tenth, while they had their lead-off batter with no one out in the home half and couldn't advance him any further as the Redmen went down, 9-8, in 10 innings to be eliminated from further play.

Stoneham left 18 runners on base in the 10 innings. Twelve of those runners remained on the bases during Friday night's seven inning 8-8 deadlock. Naturally in the game of baseball if, in this case, Tewksbury got out of countless number of jams which they did, it's only natural that Stoneham pulled off the jam in the home half of the tenth.

As much as the tenth inning decided the fate of the win for Stoneham and the loss for Tewksbury, it shouldn't have ever come down to that. Of the eight runs which scored on them during Friday's contest, three on them were unearned as Tewksbury didn't play well defensively.

Tewksbury led 5-4 after five innings and seemed to be in the driver's seat. But in the top of the sixth, Stoneham sent nine batters to the plate, scored four runs on two bleeder hits, two walks, two errors, three stolen bases and a wild pitch. Now trailing 8-5 going to the last of the seventh, Tewksbury's batters turned it up a notch as Matt Carlson drilled a two-run single to center field, and substitute Tony Pupa followed with almost the identical hit to score Brian Lowe with the tying run. With almost complete darkness surrounding the ball park, the umpires ruled that the game continue the following morning at 9 am.

After nearly a half hour delay to fix the field because of the rain from late Friday night, Tewksbury's Brian Descoteaux, who two days before pitched a 6-inning masterpiece to help the Nationals win the District 14 title for the second year in a row, started the continuation in style with a strikeout on Stoneham batter Chris Herzog. Descoteaux pitched the six superb innings on Wednesday night, then pitched the seventh inning on Friday night. Saturday morning he was once again very good. He gave up a harmless two out walk in the eighth, gout out of a two on, one out situation in the ninth, before an unearned run came across in the tenth with two outs.

But in the home half of the tenth Pupa drilled another fastball to center field for a base hit. Lead-off batter John Flanagan followed and down by a run a bunt was expected, however in the previous inning that didn't work. So Tewksbury elected for another way of moving Pupa up and that was a straight steal and it didn't work as Pupa was easily thrown out. Flanagan popped up. Errol Fagone singled, but he was erased on a fielder's choice grounder at second.

All in all it was a terrific ride for the Nationals, with an undefeated journey through the District tournament. In this finale game, Fagone had three hits, while, Carlson, Pupa and Jere Boyle each had two hits.

Carlson drove in three runs, while Jeff Luciano added a two-run single early in the game on Friday. Doug Heald and Fagone also delivered RBI singles.

Rappoli part of second state championship

Very few people are ever fortunate enough to win even a single State Championship, but Dave Rappoli of Wilmington recently pulled off the rare feat and won two State Titles in the same season.

As a sophomore at St. John's Prep, Rappoli started at shortstop while leading the Eagles to the MIAA Division I State Championship with a win over Shrewsbury High School in the State Final in June.

Three weeks later, Rappoli capped of his amazing season by leading the New England Wolfpack 15-year-old team to the AAU Massachusetts State Title. The Wolfpack beat the Lightning baseball Club 3 games to one in the best-of-five game State Final to win their second consecutive State Championship.

After splitting the first two games of the series, Rappoli provided the late game heroics for the Wolfpack in pivotal game 3, going 4-for-5 with 3 runs scored and 1 RBI. After trailing the Lightning 10-2 in the bottom of the 6th, the Wolfpack rallied to take a 13-10 lead.

The Lightning wouldn't go away easy though and struck back for three runs in the top of the 7th to tie the score at 13-13 and send the game into extra innings. In the bottom of the 8th, Rappoli doubled off the wall in left field and scored the game-winning run when Jake Henry of Winchester lined a two-out single to centerfield.

Using the momentum from their dramatic game 3 victory, the Wolfpack crushed the Lightning in game four, 13-2, in a game that only lasted 5 innings due to the Slaughter Rule.

Batting 5th in the Wolfpack lineup, Rappoli batted a solid .393 with a .468 on base percentage in the AAU State Tournament. When he is not playing shortstop, Rappoli is also one of the Wolfpack's top pitchers, posting a 2-0 record with 1 save and a team-low 0.76 ERA.

This actually marks the third occasion that Rappoli has won a State Title. In 1999, Rappoli led the Wolfpack to the 14-year-old AAU State Title, batting .408 with an incredible 43 runs scored and 41 RBIs in only 32 games. On the mound, Rappoli posted a 3-0 record with a 1.62 ERA in 17.1 innings pitched.

The 27-3 Wolfpack will now travel to Kingsport, TN to compete in the 15-year-old AAU National Tournament from July 29th to August 5th.

Glen Road playgrounders enjoy making windsocks

Last week at the Glen Road Playground the playgrounders had an awesome time participating in many fun and exciting activities. On Monday, July 17, kids had fun putting together and decorating colorful windsocks for the weekly arts and crafts activity.

Tuesday, July 18 was the playground's annual field trip to Canobie Lake Park in Salem, N.H. Playgrounders who signed up for the field trip left at 10:30 a.m. and returned at 5 p.m. after a day of fun and excitement on rides like the Corkscrew, the Psychodrome and the Boston Tea Party. As always, Playground was still held at the Glen Road for those who did not go to Canobie Lake, and the playgrounders who stayed had fun playing dodgeball and doing arts and crafts, as well as playing four square, quiet games and basketball.

On Wednesday, July 19, the playgrounders drew their best works of art on the pavement for the Sidewalk Chalk Coloring Contest. Those who signed up to participate broke down into groups and each group was given a bag of sidewalk chalk and an area to draw a special picture for the contest. When the time limit was up, leaders acting as judges went around to each group to see what the playgrounders drew. When the day was done, the pavement was covered with pictures of the PowderPuff Girls, Looney Tunes, The 60's *NSYNC, Blue Clues, beautiful houses and much more.

Thursday, July 20 the playground was empty because everyone was at Silver Lake enjoying fun, sun and volleyball for a Playground Beach Day. Both the Glen Road and the Woburn Street Playgrounds were at the beach and everyone had an awesome time whether in the water or on the playground. Playgrounders from both playgrounds who wanted to play volleyball signed up for an exciting volleyball tournament. Eight teams total signed up to play, but in the end, only one team stood standing. That winning team consisted of John Bavota, Kevin Paris, Tyler Michalewicz, Jim DaSilva, Christina DaSilva, Stephanie Ramsdell, Allison Flynn and Katie Riley. After the tournament, the winning team faced the staff in an exciting, edge-of-your-seat volleyball match.

On Friday, July 21, the playgrounders traveled on their third field trip of the year, this time to Chuck E. Cheese in Danvers. Kids who went on the field trip had an awesome time winning tickets for prizes, playing in the fun play areas, and chowing down on pizza. Again, playground was still held for those who did not attend the field trip and the playgrounders who stayed had fun with the different activities available.

The leaders would like to send out a special thanks to Canobie Lake Park and to Chuck E. Cheese for hosting last week's field trips, and to the lifeguards at Silver Lake for helping to make Beach Day a fun-filled event. Congratulations to last week's Playgrounders of the Week, Libby Bolland and Matt King and Volunteers of the Week, Kane Riley and Tim Anderson, and a big congratulations to every playgrounder who participated in any of the activities held last week.

Tewksbury's Summer Track program - Olympic Style games

The summer track clinic which ran during the week of July 10 climaxed with an Olympic style track meet between the United States and Great Britain. The meet was tied at several points during the competition, but in the end, Great Britain won out by a score of 245 to 228. There were many close and exciting races and field events, but it was the relays, in the end that swung the meet to the British.

WOMAN ARRESTED

"This will only be as difficult as you make it."

Burlington Police Officer Bernie Schipiletti

PART I

By MIA CARTER

It was early afternoon on a sunny Thursday when I drove my happy little Volkswagen Beetle to a deserted area behind the Marshall Simonds Middle School, where Burlington Police had made arrangements to arrest me. Unlike most other "armed bank robbers" who are "accosted" in such a fashion, I'm going home at the end of the day, as part of a well orchestrated mock arrest which was prearranged as the basis for a three part Middlesex East series which will illustrate what it's like as a woman to get arrested, tried in court, and sent to prison.

After waiting a few anxious minutes, two cruisers made their way toward my parked car, my thoughts venturing somewhere along the line of "What have I gotten myself into?"

A stern voice comes over the scratchy loudspeaker and tells me to freeze and put my hands on the headliner of my car. Luckily, someone very close to me is in the car business, so based on what I've heard from him, I knew to put my hands on the ceiling - six months ago this command would have probably left me quite perplexed and

Arrested to S-10

REPORTER MIA CARTER learned first hand what it is like to be arrested, "booked", tried in court and incarcerated last Thursday with the cooperation of the Burlington Police Department, Fourth District Court Officials in Woburn and Officials from the Middlesex County Sheriff's office. A three part series on the ordeal starts today and continues for three weeks. Above officers Kevin Cooney (right) and Michael McDade order Carter from her car towards two awaiting Burlington Police cruisers. At right Officer Bernie Schipiletti applies handcuffs while Officer Cooney covers the suspect with a weapon.

Woodchips

by Anthony Manconi

There's an old legend that if you break a mirror it's seven years bad luck. Tony Zankowski feels the same way breaking a dollar. He has a Coin-Slot outside his bathroom door and a pay telephone in his car.

My Aunt Nora is known in our family circle as the, "MATCH-MAKER." She can't stand anyone man or woman being in SINGLE BLISS.

Kathy said to me, "I married YOU because I thought YOU were WELL-OFF." "I WAS well-off" I shouted, "BUT when I got married it was too late."

The new cars are in the showrooms and there are some on the road now. Two seagulls flying over Revere Beach and one have YOU spotted any new cars lately?"

I remember when all the relatives and friends were invited by Uncle John Shea to see his new telephone. He made a call to Rowan Fitzgerald then, to Aunt Nora. We all marveled at this wonderful invention. After the bottle of good cheer was passed around the telephone rang and rang and rang. "Well," Frank MacDonald asked, "aren't YOU going to answer the blooming phone?" Uncle John said,

"NO" then added, I have that phone for MY convenience not anybody else's."

I was recently the Keynote Speaker at the National Locksmith's convention. Some of the members BOLTED OUT the door, when I was telling my BEST Jokes.

Vidbel's Olde Tyme Circus returns July 31

The Reading Rotary Club is pleased to announce that it is once again sponsoring Vidbel's Olde Tyme Circus to come to Reading on Monday, July 31 for two performances at 5:15 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. The all new red and white striped big top will be set up at the Reading High School Field, behind the Hawkes Field House. The circus has played to packed houses for many years in Reading.

The Rotary Club selected Vidbel's circus as a fundraising project because of the outstanding family entertainment it has brought to Reading in past years. Vidbel's 17th annual tour includes performances in 11 states along the East Coast, from Virginia to Maine.

The circus performance is different every year. However, the performance still includes acts which have been favorites of circus goers for generations, such as Miss Sadie's trained House Cats, Miss Susan on the Aerial Cloud Swing, Crazy Comedy Clowns, Dusty's Dog and Goat review, Mr. Alex on the Washington Trapeze, a Dancing High School Horse, Precision Juggling, a lively circus band and much more.

The Reading Rotary Club has sponsored the circus each summer since 1992. The sponsor receives 50 percent of all reduced price tickets sold before noon on circus day and a percentage of tickets purchased at the circus. All Club proceeds go to educational and community projects in Reading, including the Club's pledge of $15,000 to the YMCA pool building project.

Members of the Reading Rotary Club are selling reduced price tickets until July 30. Tickets are on sale at the following locations: Reading YMCA, Reading Public Library, Johnson's Hardware, Katie's Hallmark and Fabric Town or from any Rotary Club member. Tickets are $7 if purchased in advance, $9 at the circus. Children under 2 are free. For more information, call Tim Kelley (781) 942-0232.

Tighe Realtor of the Year

Jeanette Tighe, Manager of Carlson GMAC R.E. in Tewksbury, has been named the 2000 Eastern Middlesex Association of Realtors Realtor of the Year. The announcement was made at the Annual Realtor of the Year celebration held at the Hillview Country Club in North Reading.

In addition to recognition by the Association, the Massachusetts Association of Realtors Executive Vice President, Robert Nash, presented citations from Governor Paul Cellucci and the Massachusetts Senate.

The Realtor of the Year Award is presented to an outstanding member who has been active in local, state and national realtor activities, civic affairs, business accomplishments and community service.

On the realtor local level, Jeanette Tighe has served as EMAR's 2000 President-Elect, and has held several leadership positions in the association, including Chair of the Realtor Community Service Committee and President of the Women's Council of Realtors. She is currently serving as Chairperson of the Personnel Committee, Membership Committee, and the Marketing the Eastern Middlesex Real Estate Academy Committee, as well as long-standing panel member of the Professional Standards Tribunal.

Her volunteer activities include, but are not limited to, fund raising for Angel Flight NE, (a non-profit organization that flies patients to their treatments). She is also an Earth Angel, driving patients to and from hospitals and airports; she participated in the Vietnam Veteran's Moving Wall program, helping to raise funds; she is a Salvation Army volunteer during the Christmas holidays; and she consistently raises money for the American Cancer Society's Making Strides for Breast Cancer and Daffodil Days.

Jeannette developed a program to collect business suits for women in homeless shelters to aid them in their employment search.

In 1999, through her leadership and creativity, the Eastern Middlesex Association of Realtors won the coveted Gold Award in community service from the Massachusetts Association of Realtors. On the state level, Jeannette holds the position of Chairperson of the MAR Charitable and Education Foundation. She also is an active participant in the GRI (Graduate Realtors Institute) Faculty Development work group.

During 1999 and 2000 Jeanette attended the State and National Realtor Association conventions in Washington D.C. and Orlando where she participated in technology, professional standards, and leadership meetings.

Through her local church in Wilmington she has organized the gift-giving program for needy families during the holidays. She is an active member of the Chamber of Commerce assisting in community issues affecting business. Jeanette also takes part in local political campaigning, helping candidates in their pursuit of elective office.

As a final note, this outstanding realtor, when asked about realtor spirit, remarked, "I feel it is important to set an example of integrity and ethical behavior, and to work together to enhance the image of the realtor community."

About The Towns

by Phyllis Nissen

Betwixt and between in Burlington

"Selectman Kevin McKelvey called himself 'only the messenger' when he floated an idea that did not prove popular to other board members - raising B-Line fares," notes the Burlington edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"McKelvey, at a recent meeting, made a motion to raise the fare for adults to 75 cents (from 50 cents), and hike it to 35 cents for senior citizens (from 25 cents)."

"When the consensus of the board was to opposition, McKelvey withdrew the motion."

"He had stated the idea of raising the fares was proposed by the B-Line Advisory Committee."

"McKelvey reported the B-Line operated at a financial loss ($168,780 in 1998, $166,276 in 1999) the last two years and 'fares have not been touched in 12 years.'"

"The annual $80,000 subsidy the B-Line receives from the MBTA also 'may be less' in the future, McKelvey said."

"If the fare increase went into effect, McKelvey said, 'It would raise a little more than $1,000,' which would be used to develop handouts and fliers promoting the B-Line."

"Selectman Gary Gianino said the B-Line operates as a service to the community, 'not something to make money.'"

"He said people 'use it out of necessity and not as a luxury.'"

"Gianino said that for $1,000 it would be 'an injustice for people who need it. It could affect them.'"

"We should continue to look at it as a service, or eliminate it, but not as something to raise $1,000," Gianino said.

"Selectman Joseph Impemba suggested an allocation of $500 if the B-Line needs to be publicized."

"It is a small investment to see if it is ever going to work," said Impemba.

"Selectwoman Juliet Perdichizzi said 'I would second Joe's recommendation.'"

"I would be in favor of leaving it alone," said Selectman Chairman George Judge."

Cool times, hot stuff, 'men' for all seasons

according to Denise, Al owns the building occupied by the bakery in a partnership with Gavin and Denise.

"The Beanes are staying on for several months to help in the transition from old to new owners. Joe is showing Gavin how to be a baker, and Denise is working up front with Beverly."

"The Symes have no previous experience in the business, but they are learning from old pros and plan to retain the other bakers on the Beanes' staff."

"Thus, one of the oldest businesses in town lives on."

town you never knew.

"This year's reunion was the eighth annual and was attended by 135 people. It is organized by Ted and Beth Wicks, formerly of Hathaway Acres, North Wilmington. They now split their year between New Hampshire and Florida."

"That makes them snowbirds. Ted finally put down his softball bat last year at age 71, having been the oldest player in the Wilmington leagues for about two decades. Beth was on the staff of the Town Crier when it first started."

"There aren't many people in Wilmington who don't know Ralph Allen. He started cutting hair at Durkee's Barber Shop in Wilmington Center about 1950, and owned his own shop in North Wilmington for over 30 years. Ralph still lives in Wilmington and does the snowbird routine in the winter."

"Also very well known in Wilmington is retired Realtor Anne Mahoney. She summers in York, Maine and winters in Florida. Former Town Clerk Patty Ward was there with retired Town Manager Sterling Morris. They spend their summers at Silver Lake and winters at Barefoot Bay, on Florida's east coast."

"Almost unknown in Wilmington is Roy Lyman. He grew up on Forest Street and graduated Wilmington High School in the 1950's. After a few years in the service, he returned

Snowbirding in Wilmington

"...Every year, on the third weekend in March, a collection of snowbirds, retirees, transplants and vacationers gather at Shelter No. 8 in the park," notes the "Wilmington Town Crier."

"Some of them go to Florida for the whole winter. Others go for a couple of weeks. Some have retired there, others moved there many years ago. And some head down just to attend the reunion. But they all have one thing in common. They live or used to live in Wilmington. For the most part, it is a gathering of people who have known each other for as many as 50 years. But there is also the opportunity to meet people from

Beane counters in Stoneham

"Hank's Bakery at 403 Main St. has been sold by longtime proprietors Joe and Beverly Beane of Tewksbury to Gavin and Denise Symes of Stoneham," notes the "Stoneham Independent."

"Denise says the answer to the most commonly asked question of 'Are you going to change anything?' is 'No.'"

"The Beanes are passing all their recipes to the Symes. These recipes have delighted the people of Stoneham for generations. The Beane family has owned Hank's since 1942. Joe's father was the owner before him and an aunt worked in the bakery even before the family took over. Hank's itself has been around since 1913, according to Joe."

"Now Joe is training Gavin. Gavin is the son of builder Al Symes. Al owns and is renovating the old Stoneham Theater building next to the bakery. And,

Woodchips

From S-1

Folks, there's nothing that I know of that makes for ENDURING LOVE like the prompt arrival of the alimony checks.

Robert Frost said, "HOME is where when you go there they have to take you in."

Kathy dialed a number and someone said, "City Hall." "Is this really City Hall?" Kathy asked. "Yes it is Ma'am, with whom do you wish to speak?" "Oh! nobody, you see I found a piece of paper in the Woodchipper's wallet and I was wondering if he was starting to fool around again"

On the USS Carrier Wasp an Ensign asked me, "Chipper what's Port?" I saluted and said, "I think it's a RED WINE Sir!"

I read that Paul Revere's midnight ride was to spread the alarm that the British were coming-WELL, the Ride, and the Horse were NIGHT-MARES.

Aunt Nora exclaimed "so is your Woodchip's column!"

PERSONALITY WINNERS, Patrick Duran, Jr., Elizabeth Asta, Lindsey Geraigery, Michael Procopio, David Ring, Father Burns and John Ring all of WOBURN.

Folks, we breathe in Oxygen and exhale Carbon Dioxide. Trees do the opposite, they breathe in Carbon Dioxide and exhale oxygen. So, we need one another to survive. I'll go out on a limb and say, "we better replace the trees that we cut down. I did that when I worked for a tree service company that had branches all over the country.

I walked in late, right in the middle of the sermon. I asked Joe Ryan who was seated beside me, "how long has he been preaching?" "Oh! about twenty years I guess." In that case I'll stay he must be nearly finished."

I asked Frank Hudson, what was the sermon about this morning Frank?" "SIN." "What did he say about it?" "He's against it."

Daffinitions, Poor distribution, A Bald headed man with a handlebar moustache.

Pedestrian, A motorist with a teen-age son. Horsepower, something that was much safer when the Horses had it. Home cooking, that's where I think Kathy is but found out she was at bingo.

At my company's annual party the boss was making a long boring speech. "Wow," I exclaimed, "What an ole WIND-BAG." A lady sitting next to me asked, "Do you know who I am?" "No," I replied, "Well," she said, "I'm his wife." "Do you know who I am," I asked. "No," she said. Thank Heaven, I exclaimed and I sneaked out of the hall.

My cousin Mark Aloisi told me, "Chipper, put your hand on the glass window." I did and he laughed and asked, "do you feel that PANE?" "NO," I said BUT he did, he wont sit down for a week.

"Emergency! Emergency, My Radar shows that you are on collision course with me. I urgently request that YOU change your course 10 degrees EAST." "This is the Carrier Wasp with Admiral Greenly aboard, He orders YOU to change YOUR course 10 degrees WEST." Sirs, this is Seaman Harrington on duty at the Lighthouse Station that YOU are in collision course."

The California papers predicted an earthquake was imminent along the San Francisco San Andres Fault Area. My cousin sent her five year old son, Tommy east to live with Aunt Nora until the danger was over. Two weeks later my cousin received this telegram from Aunt Nora, "URGENT, I'm sending little Tommy BACK to you. Send me your earthquake.

as well, in the individual races. BOB BUDRYK finished the three aspects of the competition (the .25 mile swim, the 14.5 mile bike race, and the 5 mile run) in 1:41:58, good enough for a 24th place finish out of 71 participants, while MARK DONOVAN finished in 2:11:08, in 59th place.

*Reading Recreation Summer Baseball is now open to non-Reading residents as well as Reading residents.

This is a five-week program for boys and girls who will enter grades K-4 next fall. This program is for players who would like team play as well as instruction. Players will be assigned to teams within their own age groups, and play two games and have one practice each week on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays from July 10-August 11.

The purpose of Reading Recreation Baseball is to provide a format for instruction and games in the atmosphere of fun and encouragement. This program has been very popular, as players enjoy the opportunity to hit, field, throw and run at every session.

Players are placed on team by age, as follows:

Pre-Rookie Division: For boys and girls entering Kindergarten. Basic fundamentals will be stressed and hitting in games will be soft toss from the coaches.

Rookie Division: For boys and girls entering grades 1 or 2. Basic fundamentals will be stressed and hitting in games will be soft toss from the coaches.

Rocket Division: For boys and girls entering grades 3 or 4. Mechanics of fielding, throwing, and baserunning will be emphasized. Hitting in games will be live pitching (coaches pitch).

Choosing a doctor?

Do you find yourself dreading your annual check-up with your physician? For many Americans a visit to the doctor is often an unsatisfying experience. Interestingly, according to a recent online poll conducted by SearchPointe Inc., most people find a physician through their health care plan, followed closely by referrals from friends.

"Choosing a doctor from a list provides patients with little information about a doctor's qualifications or bedside manner," said Fran McFate, SearchPointe's vice president of e-commerce. "While talking to friends about a potential doctor may be beneficial, people really need to do their homework when making such an important choice. The frustration patients feel is likely correlated with them not having all of the facts about their health care provider."

SearchPointe suggests the following tips to help patients make a more informed decision when choosing a potential health care provider:

- Determine if a doctor is board certified and experienced with a particular condition or treatment.

- Investigate a doctor's educational background. Where did he earn his medical degree? What residencies or fellowships has he completed?

- Verify a doctor's medical license to ensure he is licensed to practice medicine in your state.

- Research a doctor's background for any disciplinary actions or sanctions against his license? While a majority of physicians are honest and well qualified, thousands of doctors are disciplined every year for serious offenses, such as criminal convictions and substandard care, but continue to practice.

- Confirm with which health plan(s) a doctor is affiliated as well as the cost of care.

- Inquire with which hospital(s) he is affiliated and what privileges he holds at each facility. You may want to utilize the hospital nearest to you, but a doctor may only have admitting privileges at a specific facility.

- Learn what kind of personal rapport a doctor has with his patients. Does the doctor spend time with the patients or is the appointment rushed?

- Discover if a doctor's approach to medicine complements your (i.e. medication, alternative health care, etc.).

WelcomeNewborn on net at Winchester Hospital

Winchester Hospital announced today its new service for all maternity patients that provides them the opportunity to launch their own personal webpage to share the arrival of their new baby with family and friends. This secure, privacy-protected service made possible through a partnership with WelcomeNewborn, Inc., is free to maternity patients at the hospital.

"Winchester Hospital is happy to offer new parents a secure and confidential means to share their good news with friends and family," said Labor and Delivery Unit Nurse Manager Jenny Tardie. "We believe the addition of this service gives new parents yet another reason to expect a premium level of care when they choose to have their baby at Winchester Hospital."

Through its affiliation with WelcomeNewborn.com, maternity patients at Winchester Hospital will no longer be saddled with making dozens of phone calls from their hospital beds. Each baby's personal web page known as a welcomesite will have its own look and feel, and can include a birth announcement, digital photos, and a message that invited friends and family will see the day the baby is born. These unique, personalized sites are privacy protected and are only accessible by authorized users.

WelcomeNewborn offers new parents the unique opportunity to use the power of the internet to stay connected to loved ones during this special time in a personalized, fun, and secure format," said Jennifer Peck, founder and president of WelcomeNewborn, Inc. "Patients want web access to share their joy with family and friends and hospitals want to accommodate them securely and safely. WelcomeNewborn makes it happen."

Sometime before their due date, patients visit the Winchester Hospital website (www.winchesterhospital.org) or www.welcomenewborn.com to create an account. They choose their welcomesite and their email list of family and friends. After the baby is born, parents call WelcomeNewborn at 1-800-734-1333 to add the baby's birth information and send in the photographer. A personal e-mail is sent on behalf of the hospital, to the addresses supplied by the parents with access to the new baby's welcomesite. Each welcomesite will provide family and friends with an opportunity to post messages and shop for gifts. In the near future, items from the hospital's own gift shop will be featured as a convenience for family and friends. WelcomeNewborn will only be available at select hospitals.

Winchester is one of the first of several hospitals that will offer this service nation-wide. Founded in 2000, WelcomeNewborn partners with trusted and respected hospitals to offer personalized web services to soon-to-be and new parents. WelcomeNewborn will be available this year at more than 60 hospitals with access to over 100,000 births per year.

Arrested

departments have done away with photographing their prisoners while holding those black information plaques - I was looking forward to that part.

Matron Helen M. Bulman then introduced herself to me and instructed me to follow her to a small cinder block office, where I'm scanned with a metal detection wand - a lot like the ones you see at the airport security kiosks.

Next I'm told to remove my shoes, which are shaken out vertically to ensure I'm not concealing any undiscovered contraband and they're then placed on the Matron's desk for safe-keeping - so I don't attempt to strangle myself with the laces.

As you may have guessed, the women's cell block was my next stop. I had expected the cell to resemble the dark, dungeon-like cell similar to what you see in the movies, but apparently putting someone "behind bars" has become obsolete these days, due to the high number of bar-related suicides. Altering the phrase to "behind plexiglass" would probably be more accurate.

I'm escorted inside the white room and the metal and glass-like door is slammed shut, leaving me all alone in captivity. The only objects in the room are an unappealing, stainless steel toilet, a metal slab (which I believe was referred to as a bed,) and two blankets. No, this isn't exactly the Crowne Plaza.

It was at this point that I began to wonder why I had agreed to participate in this entire charade.

In my two year career as a reporter, I've taken part in some pretty out of the ordinary assignments - I've interviewed and photographed celebrities, eaten lunch with politicians, and I've even met former presidential candidates. Even with all this under my belt, nothing could have prepared me for this particular adventure.

When the idea of being sent through the justice system for a day was first presented to me, I was ecstatic and thought the odyssey would be nothing less than a twisted sort of field trip. I had immediately accepted the task at hand, despite a constant flow of commentary from my mother, boyfriend, and co-workers - I believe the adjective most commonly used in reference to myself was "crazy." Furthermore, I was assured I would be under the constant protective watch of my editor, photographers, and a camera crew - all of which could surely assist me in fending off any unexpected attacks from rowdy inmates. What's funny is that the boredom which consumes you makes you start to wish there were some other inmates or other potential sources of amusement. To add insult to injury, no one had really mentioned how long I could expect to remain confined to the cell, which seemed to be closing in on me at a rapid rate. It was at this point which I truly came to realize why shoelaces and prisoners are kept separate.

What I wasn't aware of at this point was the events to come. Granted, if I had been aware, I probably wouldn't have really minded being in that initial stage of captivity. The second stage entailed being tried in Woburn District Court, which will appear in next week's edition of Middlesex East.

"Richard Pellerin also moved to Florida full time after a long career in the Air Force. He still has many relatives in Wilmington. He and his wife Zenaida brought strawberries to the reunion, and made strawberry shortcake for everyone. Dora Ardolino had filled the trunk of her car with grapefruit, and gave them to anyone who wanted them.

School Notes

by Phyllis Nissen

Missing him already in Reading

"School bells chimed at the Colonial Center Ballroom, gathering family, friends, teachers and administrators together to give Dr. Jack Delaney a grand sendoff before he ended his tenure as the Principal of Parker Middle School this school year," notes the Reading edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"Delaney's career at the school has spanned 36 years, where he first started as a Social Studies teacher before accepting the position of principal in 1972. Within that time Delaney's been instrumental in structuring the school, whether it was through his strong support for the adaptation of team teaching, or for his insights into how to make the middle school work best for students during the rebuilding of the school.

"Outside of his duties at the Parker, Delaney's received recognition for other professional achievements. He was the first middle school principal to be named President of the National Association of Secondary School Principals (NASSP), and he served as president of International Confederation of Principals (ICP), an international educational organization with over 30 member nations.

"His accomplishments and leadership style were celebrated at a party. Superintendent of Schools Dr. Harry Hamilton spoke of Delaney's long career in Reading and his pleasure in working with someone 'who by anybody's standards is a principal's principal.' As a parting gift, he presented Delaney with his original Reading teacher contract.

"Assistant Principal Bill Cowles spoke about 'the person who I've worked with side by side for 35 years,' citing Delaney's quest for excellence as being the reason why the school is successful. 'I've watched him achieve a great deal.' As a tribute, Cowles teasingly gave his boss a dry erase magnetic board similar to the one used for the school schedule, but this one was charted with suggested retirement activities

Star power, tracks, and players shine

for Delaney and his wife Jeanne.

"Cowles noted that while Delaney is retiring, he's already influencing how incoming new Principal Joe Finnegan will handle the job. Hanging on the wall in the Parker main office is 'Joe's Folder,' a file Delaney's put together with 'The top ten tips on how to survive for 30 years as the Parker Middle School Principal.'

"Delaney addressed the crowd in good humor. 'It's a wonderful thing when hundreds, no, thousands of people are so happy to see you leave...."

In training in Wakefield

"Local police and MBTA officials are teaming up to spread awareness among citizens of the dangers and proper procedures when dealing with the trains which whiz through town at a potentially lethal 55 miles an hour," notes the Wakefield edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"(The program) is going to address the children in Wakefield as far up as the High School and is going to educate them on the safety of the MBTA, railroad crossings, and the ones with gates, without gates, the right of ways, the bridges, and also the drivers education," said Officer Albert Sarafian during his recent appearance on WCAT's (Wakefield Community Access Television) weekly show, 'Wakefield Focus,' which he described as being 'really very informative.'

"(Operation Lifesaver) is a program the MBTA got involved with a number of years ago," said MBTA Deputy Director of the program Ernie Deeb. '(The program) allows us to work with individuals like Al (Sarafian) and all the communities where we operate railroad transportation. It helps us get the message out that people do not belong on the tracks and it can be dangerous.'

"Officer Sarafian recently taped a number of train safety videos, with the help of WCAT, which identify certain 'hot spots' in town, including the section of railroad tracks behind the Galvin Middle School where inattentive and distracted kids cross in inappropriate areas, and the newly constructed Myrtle Street bridge which has become somewhat of a party spot.' The videos vary in length and complexity in order to appropriately suit each age group.

"I hope to send several (train safety) tapes to the library so every child has access to them and I also hope we can get some local driving schools to show them as well," said Sarafian with a distinct air of ambition. 'What I would really like to do is teach the grammar school students, they're very impressionable at that age...."

Mixing apples and oranges in North Reading

"Seventy-seven teams participating in DestiNation Imagination met to compete at Salem High School," notes the "North Reading Transcript."

"Mixing Apples and Oranges' had 20 teams. Eleven were elementary, nine were intermediate. Dave and Robin Friedman were team managers that supervised seven local players and their ideas. D. I. advocates 'hands on kids, hands off parents.' Interference comes in various ways but any interference with a team disqualifies the team from competition.

"The second place winners from North Reading showed through innovative measures how an amoeba, a Mexican one, named Amigo, separated from its parents, was brought up by a whale. The whale found the amoeba because he was enlarged by Dr. Tuna Fish Sandwich's creation, the Large-O-Matic. After several years of nurturing by his whale parent, Amigo is reunited with his birth parent. Amigo is faced with the problem of choosing between the parent he has grown to love and the one to whom he was born. All ends well.

"In addition to their second place win, the team also received a creativity award for their shadow puppetry.

"Peter Allen, Little School music teacher, is the North Reading coordinator. Other team managers were Pat Fraine, Doreen Harper and Michelle Modica. Gloria Mastro is a resource person helping when she can...."

thinking, "You want me to put my hands where?"

I throw a quick glance into my rear view mirror, and to my absolute horror I see several guns pointed in my direction. No, I was completely unaware that this "exercise" was going to include firearms, and I have since come to believe that this information was strategically excluded from the "what-to-expect" rundown for the sake of pure shock value. I believe my exact sentiments were: "Thank god my mother isn't here to see this!"

The voice comes back on the loudspeaker abruptly and tells me to remove my keys from the ignition with my left hand and then drop them out the window. In a state of nervousness, I inadvertently disobey the commands and quickly remove the keys with my right hand and toss them onto the asphalt.

You see, there's something extraordinarily nerve wracking about knowing that these uniformed individuals have the power to take your life in a matter of milli-seconds with one well-aimed shot. Until that moment I hadn't really been in a position to view police as threatening entities - I've never even gotten a speeding ticket! I'm in direct contact with the Wakefield Police Department everyday in order to fulfill my police reporting duties, and it is through this that I have been able to dispel many common preconceptions often held by young people in our society. I've been able to see a softer, more human side - they're not heartless, vengeful, out-to-get-you, gun-toting robots, but rather they're "just doin' their job," to serve and protect their town or city.

As I'm ordered to "exit the vehicle" and slowly turn around with my hands in the air, I notice a fairly large crowd of gawkers, who must surely be getting their dosage of excitement for the day.

After spinning a few times, I'm told to start walking backwards with my hands still to the sky. I cautiously proceed moving backward, making every effort not to stumble on the crumbling asphalt below me. The idling engines of the cruisers are getting closer as I steadily pace toward my soon-to-be captors.

"Get down on the ground!" yells one of the officers. I hesitate for a moment, recalling all those scenes I've seen in the movies and on the television show 'Cops,' and I subsequently decide to hit the pavement in the most graceful way possible.

After a brief pat down, I'm handcuffed and pulled to my feet. I can still feel the eyes of the curious onlookers and the aimed gun barrel boring into the back of my head, and a slight twinge of embarrassment beginning to wash over me.

The arresting officer, Patrolman Bernie Schipiletti, tells me to lean over the trunk of the cruiser for a more thorough pat down, which didn't really leave me feeling as violated as I had previously anticipated. I'm questioned as to whether there's anyone else in the vehicle. I promptly retort "no" as the cruiser door is opened for me and I'm told to watch my head as I step inside. As I'm waiting inside the cruiser which is quickly increasing in temperature, I watch as cautious officers approach my parked car with their guns drawn, in search of any possible accomplices.

"This will only be as difficult as you make it," says Officer Schipiletti on the car ride to the Police Station. I've also been informed that I'm going to be booked and then brought to Woburn District Court.

As I arrive at the station, I'm brought through a sallyport into the booking area where my handcuffs are finally removed, to my relief. Aside from the powerless feelings which go along with being restrained in such a manner, having your arms fastened behind your back for any length of time seems to result in a great deal of joint cracking. Extraneous items such as my jacket and sunglasses are immediately confiscated and placed into a brown paper bag, referred to as my "property."

"Can you read?" inquires Detective Lieutenant Alfred Sciuto as he enters the booking room. As I nod my head, he points to a board on the wall which lists my miranda rights. He then begins asking me about my criminal history and personal information (name, address, age, etc.) I'm then fingerprinted and then asked if I have any tattoos or distinctive scars, to which I respond by proudly displaying my artwork.

An odd looking contraption, which I later identified as a camera, was then lifted in front of my face and I'm temporarily blinded with an incredibly bright flash. The product was a rather unflattering mugshot - not exactly what one might consider as Christmas Card caliber. I was later informed that most

"Techno" Georgian reproduction

The days of romance are revisited in the custom design and detailing of this Victorian reproduction located in Middleton near the North Andover line. Custom built by its present owners every detail exhibits a dynamic combination of Georgian style and the Victorian era. This is an incredible home with techno features usually found in a 'smart home'.

The basic construction of the home is commercial grade steel reinforcement with 21-24 inch steel eyebeams, welded and bolted. The exterior wall studs are 2x6 and 2x8 construction with all floor joists 2x12 instead of the customary 2x10. Excessive insulation and vapor barriers were installed. All gaps on the preliminary exterior framing have been sealed, creating three layers of airtight barrier. There is a state of the art hydro-packed HVAC system with air filtration, and mechanical breathing system to insure the proper well being of your family by lessening the amount of air born bacteria and keeping your home as sick free as possible.

The exterior perfectly reproduces the feeling of a by-gone era with elaborate wood worked trim, dental and fluted moldings. An austere roofline is complemented with thirty five year architectural shingles. Cedar siding is stained with a 15 year guarantee.

Mahogany decks and a PVC railing system insure your appreciation of the 2.6 acres of rolling meadows. The exterior of the home has been pre-wired for your exterior surveillance and alarm system.

A grand foyer greets guests with a ceiling height of 20 feet, topped by a 4' center medallion and chandelier. This home has red oak flooring and a majestic red oak stairway with ornate balusters imported from Georgia's most illustrious suppliers of Southern mansions. A multiple selection of hardwood floors including Brazilian walnut have been inlaid around the perimeter of the dining room and formal parlor.

As with any house, the kitchen is the mainstay where guests will gather and where the heart of the home is paramount. Begin your day in the breakfast nook with five sides of glass overlooking nature's wonder (end your day, viewing magnificent sunsets with a glass of your favorite wine). Imported ceramic tile graces the floors and adds flair to the semi-custom cherry cabinetry. A granite counter allows for the gourmet in all of us to surface with plenty of working space with an island. Stainless steel commercial appliances, double sink and a bar sink insure a successful gathering. Keeping in tune with a true reproduction, revival faucets grace every sink and wash area. The designer did not forget modern technology. This room is wired for cable and is an ideal room for an intimate gathering of friends and an easy glide into the 'Ballroom' family room.

This incredible family room with cathedral ceilings of nineteen feet high will be the scene of many parties. A spectacular floor to ceiling granite fireplace is perfect for those 'cozy' evenings at home. Sky watching is absent minded with motorized skylights and rain senses. Twelve foot sliders bring nature indoors over the Mahogany deck with views of fields and woods. Designed and engineered to make the most of sunlight, the massive fourteen foot Palladium window insures plenty of natural lighting. Of course, you'll want to take advantage of the surround sound wiring, the rough plumbing for your wet bar and the acoustical benefits of the high ceilings. The rest of the house is also wired for sound, waiting for your remote control.

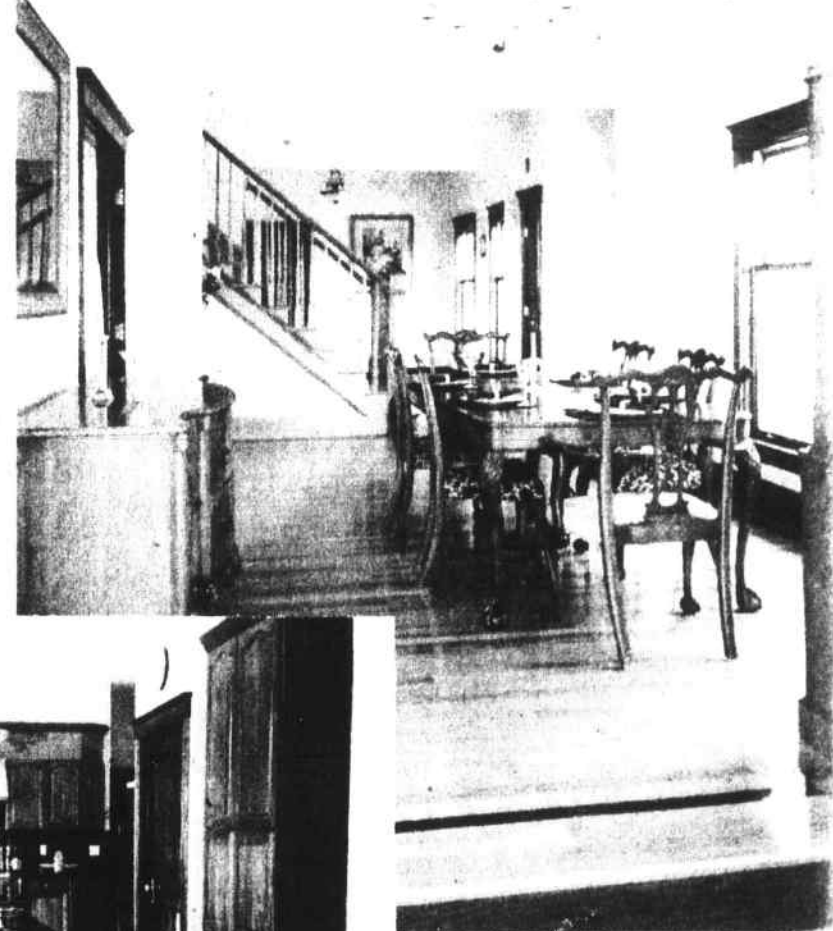

You'll love the at home office, adjacent to the kitchen and half bath with the advantage of three separate phone and cable lines. Six telephone lines have been brought to the house with the availability of more.

A first floor au-pair suite or private master suite is complete with showroom cabinets and fixtures. A full bath and separate entrance will impress the most sensitive Nanny.

Formal entertaining should not be understated. Your dinner guests will know they have acquired your respect when dining. The magnificence of the dining room is only somewhat dimmed by the spectacular views of the Grand foyer, magnificent family room fireplace and formal parlor. Ceiling medallions and antique reproduction lighting fixtures cast a warm glow that reflects through the French doors, to the Victorian suite door knobs.

Adjourn for the night by relaxing in your turreted sitting

Custom Georgian home has everything 21st century family could hope for area in your Master suite. The builder anticipating your every need has framed an opening for a fireplace with plumbing for gas available. There are His n' Her walk in closets, a master bath second to none!, marble floors and an oversized custom marble whirlpool bath, a double vanity made by Bertch of cherry with marble tops, and a separate compartment for the double headed marble shower and toilet.

Three other bedrooms are located on the second floor with room for two more on the third. A full gym with 10 foot ceilings on the ground level, lower level with access to the two car

Historic unaltered "Hoyt House"

Today's Home is a sparkling Victorian that is listed on the National Register of Historical Places. It is located in Lowell and is known as the "Hoyt House" and sits right next to an almost identical 'sister home'.

The Hoyt House is a virtually unaltered residence which exemplifies the high quality of ostentatious craftsmanship associated with stylish houses of the final quarter of the 19th century. It is a two and one half story, asymmetrically massed structure consisting of a central gable roof section with intersecting hip roof cross wings at the outer bays. The entire roof is clad in slate; for many years the ridges were crowned with decorative iron cresting. Brick chimneys are randomly placed and terminate in double flue pipes (added ca. 1885). Exterior walls are clad in flush boarding.

Beneath the cornice is a vertically planked frieze with incised ornament, repeated in the bowed east bay. Fenestration is aligned vertically; openings are rectangular and of similar size, and several windows are grouped in pairs.

Narrow trim which, on the second story terminates in cornice brackets, surrounds the fenestration. Sash on primary windows in 3/3: a wide center light flanked by narrow lights, creating an attenuated appearance which is furthered by shed roofs over many of the first story windows on side and rear elevation.

The facade is organized into three major bays, conforming to the irregular roof line. The west bay has a single window on the first story, a paired window on the second, and a triple sash dormer with a steep hip roof projecting from the roof.

The center bay is narrower.

The building's main entrance with double wooden doors occupies the ground story. Above it is a single window which breaks the eaves and is topped with a triangular cap. Piercing the roof is a triangular dormer with three angular lights. Across the front of these two bays is an elaborate Queen Anne style porch with a highly decorative gable field at the entrance, and latticework with cutout ovals between the posts. The porch roof is sheathed with copper.

The east bay is bowed, containing four windows on the lower two stories and, in the attic, a paired window capped with a conical jerkinhead. Early photographs depict a decorative wood railing, since removed.

The east and west elevations are similar to the facade, exhibiting incised friezes and scaled down versions of the Queen Anne style porch. The rear (north) elevation is typically less decorative. Projecting from the northeast corner is the pantry from which extends a frame basement entrance.

Because of the hillside site, much of the stone foundation is exposed. A long, single-story frame connector (early 20th century) joins the house to the carriage house.

The interior of the Hoyt House is extravagantly finished with black walnut doors and trim, parquet floors and a variety of marble fireplaces. The walls and ceilings were originally painted by Italian artists whose work is still visible in the foyer; the work survives elsewhere, though covered by wallpaper.

In the front rooms are imported chandeliers: a magnificent glass piece from Czechoslovakia and a porcelain one, possibly made in France or Germany; both have been electrified. The butler's pantry, lined with leaded glass cabinets, and the pantry beyond the kitchen with full-height oak cabinets, are intact. When built, all windows were fitted with an alarm, operated by wet cells.

A curved black walnut stairway leads from the grand hallway to the upper floors. An early 20th century auction notice describes four chambers and sewing and linen rooms on the second floor and, on the third, a billiard room, smoking room, servants' quarters and storage areas.

The Home is listed on the National Registry of Historic Homes.
